23 Men Perish In Fire

Skidroad Hotel Burns in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire raced through a crowded skid road hotel for men on West Madison Street today and killed at least 23.

Firemen recovered 22 bodies and said another body had been sighted in the burned-out five-story building. The Barton Hotel contained 365 cubicle rooms, mostly partitioned cubby holes, for transients.

Skid Road is an area west of Chicago's Loop, where derelicts congregate.

Some of the other 245 residents escaped into zero temperatures without shoes or socks to protect them from icy streets. Others were carried down ladders by firemen.

HUMAN TORCH

C. W. Harvey, the hotel's night clerk, said the fire may have started from a human torch. Joe Armato, 70-year-old pensioner, started to scream in his cubicle on the second floor and ran out covered with flames.

Armato habitually used rubbing alcohol, hotel officials said, and might have been using the rubbing alcohol while smoking.

Hours after the fire was extinguished, firemen began probing a yet unsearched section of the wrecked structure. They expressed fear that more victims may be uncovered in the debris.

Only six of the dead were identified immediately. Some were victims of smoke inhalation and exposure. Others were burned almost beyond recognition.

200 FLEE

More than 200 residents of the Barton Hotel, a five-story brick building on West Madison Street, fled into sub-zero weather.

Firemen helped scores from ladders and fire escapes from the upper floors. The 365-room hotel occupied the top four floors and an employee said 245 rooms were occupied.

The extra-alarm fire was fought in a temperature of one below zero and with winds of nearly 20 miles an hour.

Wolves Regain Lead In Football

LONDON (Reuters) — Charlton Athletic upset Sunderland 2-1 today, knocking the losers out of the English League first division soccer leadership. The defeat was Sunderland's first setback at home this season.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, who for the last few months have been waging a see-saw battle with Sunderland for league championship honors, took advantage of this slip to climb back to the top of the first division.

Last week, the Wanderers suffered their worst reverse in 21 years when routed 6-1 at Bolton, but they swept back to winning form today to beat Huddersfield 6-4.

The Wanderers now have 36 points—one more than Sunderland—and each team has 13 more games to play. (See results Page 3).

Formality Recaptures Margaret

Restored and sunburned after two days of swimming at a childhood friend's luxurious beach home, Princess Margaret tonight will sail in the Royal yacht for Antigua, sixth island on her West Indies tour. But hot all is fun and frolic. Many times in the month-long tour the Princess is scheduled to be the central figure in staid formality—as in this ceremony where, her bouffant skirt swirling, she listens to a formal address of welcome read by Governor Sir Hubert Rance. (London Daily Mirror Photo.)

NEW INVASION THREAT AGAINST MATSU ISLAND

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—Nationalist China today reported a new Red invasion threat building up against Matsu Island, 150 miles south of the abandoned and booby-trapped Tachen Islands.

The U.S. 7th Fleet, which had covered the evacuation of the Tachens, steamed south today.

'TV With Lee' Starts In Times Monday

A new column, written by a column will be called, will be handled by the well-known Canadian critic of things theatrical, Phil Lee, who has been writing this paper's much-quoted movie column for 3½ years.

Mr. Lee, who has written hundreds of thousands of words annually on the theatre, both movie and legitimate stage, has studied New York theatre first hand and has met, and written penetrating studies of, the great and near-great of Hollywood.

His tours have taken him behind stage of everything from summer stock to Broadway's top shows, and on the basis of his reviews is today generally considered the top analyst of the theatre in western Canada.

Only by analysis and criticism of television, he believes, plus giving plaudits where due, can the standards of the great new media be raised to a peak of public appreciation. It is a vital force in the world today, and through Mr. Lee the Times will present the complete television picture.

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — Wreckage of an American bomber which plunged into the snow-covered muskeg of northern Saskatchewan early today has been spotted by an RCAF search plane which reported there was no sign of the four-man crew.

An RCAF spokesman said the search for survivors is being continued by RCAF and civilian planes, sent to the region after the six-jet plane crashed in a training flight through the sub-Arctic.

The B-47 jet was accompanied by a similar plane on what RCAF officials described as a routine training flight. The planes were soaring through the cloudy twilight at 7:30 a.m. (CST) when the engines on one plane are believed to have failed and it fell into the lake-dotted wilderness, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

The captain of the second plane radioed the RCAF control tower at the training centre at Rivers, Man., that the bomber had crashed south of Big Sandy Lake and east of the Wapewatka hills.

BOUND FOR CALIFORNIA — The RCAF said the huge craft were returning to base at Riverside, Calif., presumably from the USAF base at Thule, Greenland, when the accident occurred. Western Canada airports are not designed to handle the long-range Superjets and officials said the second plane probably was forced to continue to its home base.

The crash scene is in rugged, lake-dotted bush country which has been in the grip of a severe cold spell for several days.

Week's Delay Won By Jo'burg Blacks

ANDY MacKENZIE STORY IN WEEKEND MAGAZINE

For the first time, the full story of Sqdn. Ldr. A. R. "Andy" MacKenzie, who was held captive by the Chinese Reds for two years, is told in his own words beginning today in The Times Weekend Magazine.

MacKenzie, 34, and the father of four children, won the DFC in service with the RCAF during the Second World War.

In vivid language he describes his two years of torment at the hands of his captors, half-starved, deprived of rest and mentally badgered until he "confessed" to actions he has since amply disproved.

RUSSIAN PLAN 'UNPRODUCTIVE'

10-Power Talks On Formosa Issue Rejected by West

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—The U.S. and Britain have agreed that a 10-nation conference proposed by Russia on the Formosa crisis would be unproductive and have turned it down.

The conclusion that the meeting would be unproductive was based primarily on the fact that Nationalist China would not be present.

Moscow radio disclosed that on Feb. 4, Russian foreign minister V. M. Molotov had proposed to British Ambassador Sir William Hayter that a 10-nation conference excluding Nationalist China be held to discuss the Formosan situation this month in either Shanghai or New Delhi.

A Washington dispatch disclosed a hitherto secret exchange of messages between Red China's Premier Chou En-lai and UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. The door was left slightly ajar for a conference but on terms the United States could not accept.

UN TROUBLES

Meanwhile, a renewal of Red Chinese threats to invade Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa bastion underscored the difficulties which will be encountered by the United Nations security council when it meets Monday to renew its discussion of the Formosan crisis.

It was not decided whether a formal resolution would be introduced but if one is it was expected to deplore Red China's refusal of the council's invitation and express the hope that steps toward a cease-fire would be taken.

This would be in line with developments in London where British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru were reported to have agreed to seek new contacts in Moscow aimed at reaching a Formosa truce.

EDEN SEES NEHRU

A United Press dispatch from Moscow disclosed that British Ambassador Hayter visited Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov on Wednesday, presumably to deliver Britain's reply to Molotov's proposal for a 10-power conference on Formosa.

In London, meanwhile, Eden conferred both with Nehru and with U.S. Ambassador Winthrop C. Aldrich on a formula for a cease-fire. Eden met first with Nehru and then with Aldrich.

Bid Rebuffed

Bid of Pierre Pflimlin to become France's 21st postwar premier was setback today when the powerful Gaullist party voted 81-32 against joining his government. De Gaulle's followers object to inclusion of Rene Mayer, advocate of a united Europe in Pflimlin's tentative cabinet. Observers believe Pflimlin's chances to succeed Mendes-France were shattered by the Gaullists' decision.

Test Law Case Looms On B.C. Machine Tax

VANCOUVER — The groundwork for a test case against the provincial government's assessment equalization law was laid today by a Vancouver lawyer who charged the new tax act is illegal.

Ex-Finance Chief, White, Dies at 88

TORONTO (CP)—Sir William Thomas White, Canada's minister of finance in the First World War, died Friday at the age of 88.

Banker, director of several large companies and a former newspaper man, Sir Thomas became finance minister in the Sir Robert Borden cabinet in 1911 and resigned his portfolio eight years later. He was acting prime minister when Sir Robert attended the Paris peace conference in 1918 and 1919.

Violence Flares In Mass Removal

Compiled from UP Dispatches

JOHANNESBURG—Forced removal of this South African city's 60,000 blacks, scheduled for today, has been postponed a week by government order after scattered violence in Sophiatown. The negro shum is to be levelled to make room for the expanding white community.

British Officer Stoned to Death In West Africa

Armed police today arrested eight negroes who were fomenting strike action. They are liable, under South Africa law, to whippings.

Freetown Strikers Riot in Streets

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (Reuters) — A British police officer died of stone wounds and six Africans today were reported killed in pitched battles with strikers in this British West African colony Friday night.

The officer was assistant superintendent W. M. Everitt, 34, said to have been wounded by stones as he led an attack against the rioters.

Freetown, in the grip of a four-day strike by the native Artisans' and General Workers' Union, was like an armed camp today, with battles still going on in various parts of the town. The army has been called in and special constables have been enrolled to shift rioters from their road blocks. The water supply to the city has been sabotaged.

The police station in the eastern part of the town was burned down after a heavy attack by rioters. All shops were closed and shuttered following a night of looting.

INVOKE EMERGENCY POWERS

Governor Sir Robert Hall gave the police wide powers Friday to disperse crowds and arrest anyone carrying arms. Most bus services have been stopped since Wednesday, when the incidents began.

The union is demanding a wage increase equivalent to 11 cents a day. They have been offered seven.

EIGHT FACE LASH

Two thousand policemen, armed with machine-guns, are guarding Sophiatown. They were called out two days ago when 40 Negro families fled in the night, led by a white clergyman, in defiance of the government's move-or-else edict.

About 100 families bowed to the order and moved in government trucks to a new community, Meadowlands, 12 miles away. They were mostly squatters.

CAN'T BUY HOUSE — Many of the other blacks own shacks in Sophiatown. They'll be paid for the property but cannot buy homes in the government-owned Meadowlands settlement.

Father Trevor Huddleston, a British-born priest who has spent years working among the negro inhabitants of Sophiatown, warned today that it was a mistake to think that a lack of major violence indicated the families were accepting the scheme.

"About a quarter of the families boycotted Wednesday's move and stayed in Sophiatown," he said. "These people were living in the foulest conditions yet they refused better houses for the sake of a principle."

Socred Filibuster Shaping Up Over Power Control Bill

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

The Commons has knocked down one Social Credit roadblock—and now faces another—in the way of a government bill to tighten federal control over use of international river waters.

A filibuster appeared shaping up Friday night as Social Credit members charged the measure is an invasion of provincial rights aimed at British Columbia's Social Credit government.

They staunchly defended B.C.'s agreement with the Kaiser Corp. of the United States to build a water storage dam on the Columbia River's Lower Arrow Lakes to increase power production on the U.S. stretch of the river.

Trade Minister Howe said the project is not prudent and would ruin long-range plans for Columbia River development.

MOTION DEFEATED
The Commons Friday night voted 118 to 14 to defeat a motion by Social Credit leader Low to delay decision on the bill six

Low Suggests Ottawa-B.C. Parley

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the bill should be withdrawn temporarily until the federal and B.C. governments can get together on the issue.

He said the attitude of the federal government on the project would have been different if Quebec Province had been involved.

"Let that soak in," he added. He said there might have been a "show of throwing down the gauntlet" as Prime Minister St. Laurent had done last September in criticism of Quebec's position in the Quebec-Ottawa tax dispute.

It was a fine thing that Mr. St. Laurent later had met with Premier Duplessis of Quebec to iron out the tax difficulties.

The same attitude should have been taken by Ottawa in the disagreement over the B.C.-Kaiser contract. But the federal government had made no effort to sit down with the B.C. government to discuss the problem.

Attempts to Delay Divorce Bills

The Commons Friday defeated by a vote of 107 to 28 a CCF motion designed to block consideration of 44 divorce bills.

The motion was made by Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) at the start of the Friday hour devoted to private bills. All 44 private bills on the Commons order paper were divorce bills.

Mr. Knowles' motion was supported by 18 members of the CCF party, eight of the Social Credit group and two Quebec independents—Paul Cagnon, Chicomil, and Fernand Girard, Lapointe. It was opposed by 80 Liberals, 21 Progressive Conservatives and six Social Credit members.

The Social Credit party was the only group to split on the vote. The total vote of 135 reflected the sparse attendance in the House Friday afternoon. The House has 264 members. One seat, Battle River, Alta., is vacant.

Labor Minister Milton F. Gregg Friday opposed a bill seeking equal pay for equal work for women but agreed with its principle.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC-Hamilton West), the opposition's labor expert, brought in for the third time in as many years a measure asking that women doing the same jobs as men in industries coming under federal labor law be paid the same. The government has resisted its passage each time.

Mrs. Fairclough spoke only briefly, letting her arguments of previous sessions stand. She said her case was stronger now because women in the labor force today totalled 1,235,000, more than 23 per cent of the total of 5,414,000, compared with 22.2 per cent a year ago. She said 50,000 women entered the labor force in the past year compared with 13,000 men. The number of single women with dependents paying taxes last year numbered 651,130, she added, as against 736,020 single men in the labor force paying taxes.

Gregg said the government fully supported the basic principle of the bill. But, he added,

Gundy Sees No Anomaly In Bank Post

Ottawa Money Policy Sole Sacred Hate

VANCOUVER (CP) — Einar Gunderson, former provincial finance minister and a newly-elected director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, says Social Credit's monetary quarrel is not with Canadian banks but with the financial policy of the federal government.

Mr. Gunderson, an economic adviser to the B.C. government, was commenting Friday on a CCF charge in the legislature that there is a direct link between his role as a government adviser and a director of the Bank of Commerce.

"The talk about the financial system and monetary policies has nothing to do with banks," Mr. Gunderson said. "You never hear Social Credit criticize the banks."

The Canadian Bank of Commerce handles the B.C. government's financial business.

In an interview here Mr. Gunderson said the CCF statement in the House Wednesday was made just to cause embarrassment. He said Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, started it all and Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle) picked it up.

"I am not a civil servant," Dr. Gunderson said in explaining his status with the government. "I have been retained to supervise and prepare the brief in connection with the federal-provincial tax agreement."

Asked by a reporter how he, as a member of the Social Credit League, reconciled his role as bank director with Social Credit's monetary theories, Mr. Gunderson replied that since he is not connected with the government's finance department, he is not acting in a dual capacity by working for the government and the Bank of Commerce at the same time.

"Social Credit has always said that banks are needed to conduct the affairs of the people," he said. Social Credit does not say a government should never borrow. If revenue suddenly fell off, there would be nothing to stop the government from borrowing.

Speeder Fined $20

Police said he was paced from 45 to 50 miles per hour Feb. 2 on Pandora Avenue.

MANSLAUGHTER VERDICT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thomas Blainey, 39, was convicted of manslaughter by an all-male assize court jury Friday in the fatal shooting of his four-year-old nephew on an Indian reserve near Powell River Oct. 27.

The jury added a strong plea for leniency in sentence. Blainey was remanded by Chief Justice Wendell Farris to the end of the assizes for sentencing.

2,000 Escape Fire in Swank Dallas Hotel

DALLAS (AP) — Three swank clubrooms were in ruins and much of the rest of the Hotel Adolphus bore scars from smoke and water today, but only eight persons of an estimated 2,000 occupants, 400 employees and 150 firemen were hurt when a mysterious fire gutted a part of the second floor of the 1,250-room structure Friday night.

The blaze burst from a kitchen spread by a mysterious explosion, it ate through clubrooms and nearby private dining rooms until put out almost two hours later.

Leo Corrigan, owner of the hotel, estimated damage "somewhere between $50,000 and $100,000."

Globe & Mail Sold To Montreal Financier

R. Harold Webster Pays $10.5 Million For Toronto Newspaper; Tops 12 Bidders

TORONTO (CP) — R. Harold Webster, an unassuming 45-year-old Montreal business man, Friday night became the owner of The Globe and Mail, Canada's largest morning newspaper.

His bid was one of 12 considered by executors of the estate of C. George McCullagh, and was considerably in excess of $10,500,000, although the exact figure was not announced.

It was the largest transaction in Canadian newspaper history. Announcement of the purchase was made by The Globe and Mail staff by Mr. Webster from Montreal. He said he planned no changes.

WIDE HOLDINGS

Mr. Webster is the son of the late Sen. Lorne C. Webster of Montreal. The Webster family has extensive holdings in the United States, including Detroit's tallest skyscraper, the 47-story Penobscot Building, worth about $17,500,000.

Mr. Webster said he bought The Globe and Mail for himself alone.

SURPRISE BIDDER

His purchase of the newspaper, whose circulation is 244,391, was a surprise. His name had not been mentioned in advance speculation. He decided to bid for the paper only this week.

In a brief message to the newspaper staff, the financier said:

"I have no intention of any changes. I hope they will stay with me and that together we will make a real success of it."

LEFT A FORTUNE

Mr. Webster, 45, is one of six children of Senator Webster, who died in 1941 leaving a fortune that included large holdings in oil wells, banks, ranches and business firms.

The family is the principal stockholder in the Eversharp-Schick Co. and has other extensive holdings in the United States.

In 1953 the Canadian Red Cross sent more than 2,000 cases of emergency relief supplies to other parts of the world.

TLC-CCL Merger Could Weaken CCF

'Political Arm of Labor' Status Likely to Die in Union Amalgamation

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA—Union of the two main labor congresses in Canada, which may now materialize within a year, will probably see the CCF lose official status as the political arm of a main body of organized labor in this country.

The CCF has been officially named by the Canadian Congress of Labor as its "political arm." The Trades and Labor Congress on the other hand preferred to remain neutral in the political field. Officially the TLC was not aligned with any political party in Canada and it steered away from becoming entangled with any political group.

SECONDARY QUESTION

Thursday Claude Jodoin, president of the TLC, said that the question of recognition of any political party as being a "political arm" of organized labor was a "secondary matter" in considering the broad and vital question of amalgamation. He indicated that it was a small detail to be disposed of in a democratic way at conventions to be called after unification of the two Canadian labor organizations had been realized.

Donald MacDonald, national secretary-treasurer of the CCL, also said the question of any political alignment was a secondary one. The amalgamation of the two labor organizations was the main question and the political question was a detail that could be disposed of later.

Where will this leave the CCF? That was a question that the representatives of both political organizations preferred to sidestep for the time being. However, the TLC representatives in the past have made it plain that they do not go along with the CCL policy or recognizing the CCF as its political arm. The CCL representatives in the past have also made it clear that if and when the time came for unification the alignment with the CCF would go by the board rather than be allowed to stand in the way of final union.

E. Fredin Appointed City Gas Inspector

E. Fredin has been appointed gas inspector for Victoria city. It was announced at a council meeting Thursday. A gas inspector became mandatory by terms of the Gas Act of August, 1954. Increased work made it necessary to remove the work from the building inspector's department.

Autoist Fined $15

A city motorist, Clara Stevenson, was fined $15 in city police court Friday when convicted on a charge of failing to give the right-of-way to a pedestrian in a stop-when-occupied zone.

Byron Johnson Hits Government For Arrow Lakes-Kaiser Hydro Plan

Former Liberal premier of B.C., Byron Johnson, strongly criticized the Social Credit government over its Arrow Lakes-Kaiser dam hydro plan at a Liberal Association meeting Friday night.

"This may sound funny coming from a former premier," he remarked, "but I have never seen any provincial government use such poor judgment."

He made the statement from the floor in a panel discussion on current B.C. problems by five members of University of British Columbia Young Liberals Club, who visited the Legislature during the day.

One of the problems concerned the government plan to grant water development rights on the Columbia river to Kaiser Aluminum Co., a U.S. firm which would store water in B.C. for hydro-electric generation in the U.S.

Of 24 Liberal students who made the trip Darrell Anderson, Chilliwack; Charlie Sears, New Brunswick; Ron Basford, Vancouver; Cecil Brown and Brian Cox, both of Victoria, comprised the panel.

Mr. Sears estimated water power at stake in the Kaiser deal to be worth $25,000,000 a year at the present rate per kilowatt hour.

"British Columbia is giving its hydro away at too low a price. When we get a million dollars for $25 million worth of electricity, that's not business," he said.

Panelist Anderson commended federal government action in introducing legislation to block the B.C.-Kaiser deal. He compared B.C. action to "repugnant" Social Credit legislation in Alberta during the 1930's, which was stopped by federal action.

Mr. Sears drew attention to a statement made in the Legislature Friday that a government delegation could go to Ottawa to seek federal approval of the scheme.

He said Premier Bennett "sat there in the House as if to say 'Move over God—here comes Bennett.'"

Mr. Johnson added, "We've got to be prepared to answer questions on the right of the Liberal (federal) government to step in" and block such legislation.

Panelists agreed that the province was overstepping its jurisdiction in granting such sweeping rights to the U.S.

Young Liberals also criticized the Social Credit plan for forest management licensing policies. Mr. Anderson said it would breed patronage and advised Liberals to have some definite alternate proposal for forest management when the time comes for an election.

The hardship for small lumbering operators was pointed out by Mr. Sears, who said only the big firms could afford to obtain licenses through deals with other large firms if the plan is allowed.

Mr. Cox said he could see no chance for change until the royal commission report on forest management licenses is made.

The panel also discussed the senate, most members agreeing it filled a need, but conceding there might be room for revision.

"We are getting the services of some very distinguished gentlemen at relatively low cost (about $1,000,000 a year)," said Mr. Anderson.

"If Social Credit ever gets to Ottawa, just think where Gunderson and Percy Wright would be," Mr. Sears remarked. "In seriousness, though," he went on, "I don't think there is a chance of them ever getting there."

Giovando the Expert
On Errant Juveniles
By TONY DICKASON

With all the current faldroos on juvenile delinquency, the MLA for Nanaimo and the Islands had a few reassuring words in the Legislature Friday. He said kids were kids, and always the adults would be late.

Dr. Larry Giovando was a mite upset about reports of callow youths carousing in his constituency. But, statistically, he proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that they caroused everywhere, anyway, and had done so for years immemorial.

The good doctor is one who delivers his facts in a staccato style, but bluntly. As well as being a doctor, he is a successful hotel owner, as were some of his family. Thus they were brought in contact with the occasional noggins of the potent and pure. Why, he said, "I used to deliver some illegal liquor." This of course was a few days ago when he was a youngster, when nobody could buy nothing, legal, that is.

Most youngsters, he indicated, went through the "dago wine" stage. It was just part of their spiritual development. He admitted he knew of what he was talking. It was "a subject I'm well conversed with."

100 Beer Bottles; But Don't Worry

With kids just behaving like kids, and carousing by conscientious custom, as it were, nobody had to be especially worried. He did mention, however, that at a recent high school dance in Nanaimo three policemen had been at the party. Nobody hurt nobody, but when the staid little affair ended, 100 bottles of beer were found on the premises, plus a few depleted bottles of whisky.

Dr. Giovando said alcohol put more people out of business than anything.

Yes.

A gregarious hospitable (no pun, please) soul is the doctor, a sportsman at heart, and well liked in the Legislature and elsewhere. He's no speaker, as such. Nobody ever ruled that a surgeon should be able to talk too. He's both an independent thinker, and a political independent, who plugs for improved medication for the nation and things outdoorsy, like woodchucks, and quiet fish.

He wants government-subsidized convalescent homes, and read several case histories to prove the point. There was today "a cute shortage of acute beds," but it wasn't cute in the doctor's mind.

The medical profession had smartened up to needs for clinics for drug addicts, but the doctor indicated the government had not yet drummed the problem.

Ernie Winch (CCF-Buraby) had been beating the drum for free drug clinics for 25 years, he recalled, and gave that gentleman credit where it is undoubtedly due.

If the present government undertakes a comprehensive scheme, then Mr. Winch can claim to a type of social credit, with low capitals but a capably high rating.

Dr. Giovando says he's going to England shortly, where they have free drug clinics, and bring back the whole dope.

Young Liberals Get Right Habit

Bruce Brown, who hails (with a loud voice) from Prince Rupert on behalf of Liberalism, welcomed 27 UBC Young Liberals visiting the Legislature. He pointed out the Liberals had swept the campus in recent elections, and this was "indicative" of things to come.

Said Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle): "That's an unwarranted attack on the educational system."

Mr. Brown, a lawyer, who has a shock of whitening hair over a grey suit, said in the budget addresses no one had been talking much about the budget. So he did. He admitted few people of discernment could understand the thing; even cities of discernment were having their troubles in this regard.

Speaking on redistribution of seats, he said the premier had been accompanied last summer on a Peace River tour by an undertaker. This has little bearing on anything, except perhaps to indicate that redistribution is a dead issue. After one full session and to date in this one, the committee on same has arrived at nowhere, by the long route.

(Ladies: Mrs. Lydia Arsen, an MLA who likes the premier, wore a look of thoughtful interest; indifference; the hairdo she always wears; a green wool dress with an inverted pleat in the front with black velvet collar and cuffs.)

Friday, Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan spoke also, and very sensibly. Liking beans as a partial diet, we were sorry to hear they were mouldy in B.C. because of blight.

C of C Backs Comic Strip Balloons Idea for Empire Day Parade Here

Victoria Chamber of Commerce Friday endorsed a proposal to bring the Popeye comic strip family here for the Empire Day parade in giant balloons.

A monstrous fish, octopus, a dragon and an 80-foot rubber of Caddy and other huge inflatable balloons are included in a package deal sought by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee.

Cost will be close to $2,500. Victoria Press general manager, Cyril Wightman, and B.C. Electric official, Morley Collins, were appointed to ask business firms to finance the displays.

The committee will also urge other floats and displays and a beard-growing contest was discussed.

Date of the parade is still undecided. The chamber supports Saturday, May 21, when stores would be open for business. GVCA will make the final decision. Chairman Frank Hunter leads the faction opposed to removing the parade any further than one day from May 24, the traditional holiday.

A Dominion holiday has been declared for Monday, May 23, to permit a long week-end.

Oscar Nominations Televised Tonight

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The film industry was getting set today for a huge hoopla to celebrate nominations for the 1954 Oscars.

For the last 26 years, the motion picture academy had merely handed out lists of the nominees to the press. This year it's different.

The academy has found an angel, an auto firm which is sponsoring a national telecast of the nominations tonight as well as the final awards March 30. Since the mere announcement of the nominees would make dull watching, NBC has turned the affair into a big production.

The telecast will be centred at the network's headquarters in Burbank. Pickups will be made from Ciro's, Romanoff's and the Coconut Grove, where parcels of stars will be herded. When emcee Jack Webb announces the nominees, cameras will turn to the eight spots and attempt to capture reactions of surprise, joy, etc.

MOST STARS ABSENT

It looks as though not too many of the potential nominees will be present to register their reactions. Among the top favorites, only Judy Garland ("A Star Is Born") and Humphrey Bogart ("The Caine Mutiny") have accepted invitations.

As for the others: the whereabouts of Marlon Brando ("On the Waterfront") are unknown, as usual. Bing Crosby ("The Country Girl") is recuperating at home from a kidney stone operation. William Holden ("The Country Girl") is in Hong Kong. So far James Mason ("A Star Is Born") hasn't accepted.

Most of the other expected nominees among the actresses are in the east or abroad. They include Grace Kelly ("The Country Girl"); Ava Gardner ("The Barefoot Contessa"); and Audrey Hepburn ("Sabrina").

The telecast will begin at 6 p.m. PST.

NW Passage Trade Route Forecast

MONTREAL (CP) — Capt. Owen C. S. Robertson, commander of HMCS Labrador — the navy's destroyer-icebreaker — said today the time is not far off when freighters and other carriers will ply the Northwest Passage across the top of Canada.

Capt. Robertson, who guided the Labrador through the passage last year in circumnavigating North America, said "I see no reason why freighters of 2,000 to 5,000 tons couldn't sail the passage, four years out of five for about two months each year."

WINE-LOVING PEASANTS BLOCK FRENCH ROADS

PARIS (UP) — Thousands of angry farmers blocked highways across the nation with carts and tractors today in protest against low farm prices and the drive against alcoholism by ousted Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

It was the grand "day of protest" for the wine-drinking peasants who have been demonstrating with growing anger against the Mendes-France anti-alcohol campaign and the prices they are getting for farm products.

Municipalities Will Get Only Fractional Aid, Says Brown

B.C.'s municipalities will receive only a fraction of the additional aid promised them by the provincial government under the new school formula, Liberal MLA Bruce Brown charged Friday.

Mr. Brown said the provincial government is already committed to pay 50 per cent of interest and sinking funds payments on $38,000,000 borrowed by school districts for school construction.

He said this amounts to $1,250,000 and is not included in what the budget calls "additional aid" to school districts this year totaling $5,300,000.

Mr. Brown also forecast an increase in the $1-a-day co-insurance rates for B.C. Hospital Insurance. He said hospital administrators and medical men are dissatisfied with the hold-the-line policy on hospital budgets, and will require more money.

He said government claims of $1,000,000 savings in BCHIS administration costs are "deceitful." He said merchants take back $700,000 for collecting the $23,300,000 brought in by the 2 per cent increase in sales tax, reducing the saving to $300,000.

Three Game Derbies Open to Sportsmen

JORDAN RIVER — Three game derbies will be conducted this year by the fish and game committee of Jordan River Athletic Association.

The salmon derby will be held between Sooke Harbor and Port Renfrew, the trout contest from Sooke Harbor to Sombro River, and the deer derby between Sooke River and Lost Creek.

Major project of the association this year will be the painting of the community hall.

SAIGON, Indo-China (UP) — The United States today took over the training of the Viet Namese national army in an effort to build it up as a bulwark against communism, Premier Ngo Dinh Diem announced.

Diem said the program was aimed at building up a 140,000-man army by the end of the year to counter the threats of aggression from Communist North Viet Nam.

Gatt Countries Agree To 3-Year Renewal

United States Still Holding Hard Against Reduction of Import Curbs

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and 33 other countries have tentatively decided to renew existing tariff concessions for a three-year period, though the United States will not agree to a reduction of import curbs, qualified informants said Friday.

Kaiser Claims Cost Kills Arrow Power

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP) — A dam at the foot of the Arrow Lakes is not suitable for power generation, Robert A. Sandberg, public relations officer for Kaiser Aluminum company, said here.

Speaking to members of Rossland Chamber of Commerce, he said "British Columbia could obtain benefits from a share of the downstream power generated in the United States" adding that power could be produced in Canada but only at a prohibitive cost.

He said Kaiser was presently faced with the possibility of an interrupted power supply in the event of a low water year.

This would force a shutdown of Kaiser plants forcing an unstable employment picture, he said.

As a result of the current situation Kaiser's argument was that if a dam could be built at Castlegar on the Arrow Lakes to hold back the flow of the Columbia River during the heavy runoff season it could be released later to assure the Bonneville authorities of an uninterrupted water supply.

The Kaiser representative criticized newspaper reports and statements which suggested that Canada was being asked to give away resources.

Five Days' Jail For Meal Theft

Michael J. Hoare, 21, no fixed address, was sentenced to five days in jail in city police court Friday when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall for sentence on a charge of vagrancy.

Hoare pleaded guilty to the charge on Wednesday.

Police said the accused ordered a $2.21 meal at a city restaurant and only had 40 cents to pay.

Gale Lashes Maritimes

Moncton, St. John Battered; 114 Escape Death in Maine

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Rain-lashed gales up to 90 miles an hour today battered the Bay of Fundy coast, tearing down power and communication lines and flooding the main Saint John-Moncton highway.

Thirty head of valuable cattle were killed in one battered barn.

The waters of the bay were whipped into a boiling froth and CPR officials cancelled the sailing of the big ferry Princess Helene—a rare occurrence even on this turbulent patch of water. The 5,500-ton ferry makes the return trip to Digby, N.S., daily.

The weather office at Halifax issued a gale warning and all small ships were advised to remain in port until the wind abated.

Search and rescue and marine radio at Halifax said that they had received no word of ships in distress.

MONCTON IN DARKNESS

Moncton reported the strongest winds, with an average of 50 and gusts up to 90 miles an hour. The city was in darkness for several hours and trees were blown across roads, disrupting traffic.

The storm centre, just over northern New Brunswick, is moving northeastward.

The Nova Scotia side of the Bay of Fundy was not as hard hit. The communication lines were downed by falling trees early today and highest winds were reported at Shearwater naval air station, across the harbor from Halifax, where an Must CD Be a Big Yawn?

AS IS HIS CUSTOM EACH session, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black has made his annual plea for something better than current apathy over civil defense.

Those who have heard him on such occasions are impressed with his apparent earnestness. They agree with much he has to say. They admit that civil defense is the sensible precaution to take against possible attack on the city and community. They may even have a transitory feeling that they should do something about it.

If there are such stirrings of conscience, for the vast bulk of the people they soon pass away. Civil defense, to the majority, remains a good idea—something the other fellow ought to interest himself in.

There is, of course, a civil defense organization here. There are men and women who are prepared to give up their spare time and some of their energies to the task of learning what to do when the air raid sirens blow for some reason other than a short circuit or a mechanical test. But apart from that relatively small core, and the slightly guilty feeling some civically conscious people have, civil defense remains, on the whole, a big yawn to the public.

There are several causes which produce that effect. One undoubtedly is sheer laziness. Another is fatalism, increased by the all-destructive nature of the most powerful nuclear weapons. A third is a sense of futility—the belief that there is only one chance in several thousand that formal civil defense training can be brought into effective use, and hence is not worth the time spent on it.

These attitudes may be all wrong, may be thoroughly unjustified. But they exist.

What, then, can be done to overcome them?

Probably one valuable approach would be to emphasize the day-to-day value of some training in different branches of civil defense which can be exercised without the delivery of an atom bomb.

Those agencies within the general framework of civil defense which teach first aid might reasonably be given wider attention and more assistance. The Red Cross and the St. John Ambulance Association are two of them.

More public concern might also be displayed toward certain features of traffic control—essential in an evacuation—which could also help to relieve everyday congestion in the city.

In the rural areas, auxiliary fire-fighting squads might renew some of the enthusiasm once held here by the companies of pioneer days. As recent events have proved, they could be exceptionally useful when fire breaks out at some distance from halls—as it did in a Cordova Bay home earlier this month.

Of particular value, also, might be expanded interest in such agencies as the South Vancouver Island Rangers Inc., which teach discipline and rescue techniques as well as competence in the woods.

There are innumerable other interest fields—veterans' groups, amateur radio clubs and various organizations which lend themselves to co-operative effort within the orbit of civilian defense.

Many of them are tied in to the official CD organization. Their value would be increased if they could draw more people to their memberships.

How effective they may be in event of emergency is difficult to tell. But one common point stands out. They are active in their own departments because they hold the interest of members. With rare exceptions, civil defense by itself has no such appeal. Perhaps the constructive future of the agency depends on greater emphasis on the activities which possess that interest for people—interest which is not based solely on the unlikely dropping of an H-bomb here.

Cracking Eggheads

IT IS to be hoped that Social Credit member John Blackmore of Lethbridge clearly labelled his remarks as a jest when he discussed Citizenship Minister Pickersgill's scholastic background the other day.

Mr. Blackmore was speaking on federal aid for public education. According to news reports, he attacked Mr. Pickersgill's argument on that subject as "typical of Rhodes scholars." The Lethbridge member was gently reminded that Mr. Pickersgill is not a Rhodes scholar. To which he replied that Mr. Pickersgill was acting like an Oxford graduate, which he is.

Mr. Blackmore makes a rather sweeping condemnation of Oxford, Cambridge and the London School of Economics in his statement: "Generally speaking when a man has graduated from any one of these he is a socialist in his ideas, he is a centralizer and he thinks nobody in the world knows how to govern a country except his own particular class..."

Joking, Mr. Blackmore? Or is Social Credit repeating the anti-intellectualism of another country where cracking "eggheads" has been a mentally juvenile pastime?

Atavism

IN THE STRANGE HYSTERIA of the times, few gestures are more revolting than that of a Texan who this week reportedly offered a bounty on Red MIGs in the Formosa area.

The news service reported the Dallas man to be "tired of having our boys shot at." He would, he said, give $100 reward to any American pilot who shoots down a Red MIG over Formosa "in defense of our country." There are, he thinks, plenty of Texans who are prepared to swell the fund.

The individual in question appears to have overlooked certain fundamentals in civilized living. Society, if it lays any claims to civilization, cannot condone the posting of a money prize for killing human beings.

Certainly in war the idiom of "git or git got" applies. And in self-defense a pilot must obviously fight back against someone attacking him.

But if a bounty system were permitted there would be reasonable doubts over the entire question of western morality. When the sponsor of the plan has time to think the matter over, he may ask himself if there is any more than a difference in degree between his offer and the savagery of primitive head-hunters.

Looking Back Over My Shoulder

BY TOM MERRIMAN

TWENTY-FIVE years ago this week: Conservatives were in power in B.C. and holding their first legislative session under the direction of Dr. S. F. Tolmie who had resigned his federal post of Minister of Agriculture to lead them to victory after 12 years of Liberal reign. Budgets were different with year's expenditures estimated at $26,000,000. Today's budget, $211,814,341.

Tom Uphill, then as today, was fighting Fernie's battles in the legislature. Hon. T. D. Pattullo as ex-premier was dynamic Opposition Leader occasionally dropping his fighting role to benignly help stumbling tyro ministers, unversed in provincial politics, along the difficult path of government procedure.

Eighty-two last month, living in retirement in his beautiful waterfront home on Beach Drive, Mr. Pattullo still closely follows political events.

Dr. J. H. Moore was elected president of St. Joseph's Hospital staff; Dr. J. M. Fowler, vice-president. Mayor Herbert Anselmo won scooter race prize at a Junior Chamber of Commerce party. Tom Lundson was the winner. C. H. O'Halloran, now an Appeal Court judge, then a lawyer sharing offices with B. D. Harvey, was campaigning in the Nanaimo riding as federal candidate.

Victoria teachers asked for a maximum of $1,825 for principals of junior schools. Trustee W. C. Moresby, one of the oldest practicing lawyers in B.C., today, referred the matter to the finance committee.

A one-column story and attractive picture told that Mrs. Harold Palmer would lead a four party of thirty to China and Japan.

Seventy applications were received for $175 a month job of city wiring inspector. Vancouver firm got $140,000 contract to build Kresge's store.

Big headlined sports story "Ruttan's Try Gives Bays Win Over Scottish," referred to Charlie Ruttan, now personnel manager of Manning Timber Products and naval officer of Second World War. Hockey standing: PCHL, Portland 35, Vancouver 31, Seattle 28, Victoria 12.

ROAD PROBLEMS

Now an insurance man Jim Elrick was Reeve of Esquimalt with road problems on his hands. City Council was notified of changes in school taxes. Aubrey Kent, now head of Kent's music firm, was one of the organizers of the Tenth Battalion Reunion. Tom Obee, still singing cockney songs in Victoria after passing the four-score mark, was one of the entertainers.

Evacuation

BY JOSEPH ALSOP, Aboard Amphibious Flagship Estes in the East China Sea

IT is wonderfully inspiring to see the armed might of the United States deployed for battle. But it is also a bit dispiriting to know that the purpose of this great show of force is to make sure that the enemy is given an important strategic position.

Alsop

As these words are written, a great fleet is steaming towards the Tachen Islands in order to evacuate the Chinese Nationalist forces. The fleet's orders deserve consideration for they are a true military novelty. If the enemy resists being given a most valuable present, we are to fight him. But if he accepts the present gracefully we are to make the offering in the same amiable spirit.

At this writing, no one knows which case will arise, although it seems most probable that the Chinese Communists will accept the gift with a good grace. But we are certainly ready for the giving of it. A carrier task force led by the super Midway with four other great ships and a vast array of other vessels in its screen; an anti-submarine force of considerable strength; a surface air striking force heavy with the weight of metal it can throw; and this amphibious task force with its own tremendous apparatus of landing craft and ships of every sort, are all converging on the target area.

GREAT FORCE

The number of vessels employed is larger than in any amphibious operation since the end of the Second World War, with the sole exception of the Inchon landing of glorious memory. The movement orders fill books. The complexity of the operation—a delicate co-ordination of sea, ground and air efforts on an immense scale, with tens of thousands of participants performing thousands of different jobs—baffles the ordinary imagination. Yet all is order, all is sureness, all is efficiency.

Inchon, which this reporter cannot help recalling, was more confused and much less overshadowed by the threat of an enemy attack on the fleet exposed in narrow waters. And without making any invidious comparisons, the naval leadership at Inchon did not make the impression that is made by the commander of this amphibious task force, Rear Admiral Lorenzo S. Sabin.

LEAN, TOUGH LEADER

This lean, tough, laconic but decisive man seems to be formed to lead. You talk to him, and it is a partial history of American defense in the last fifteen years, including the hair-raising passage of the wintry North Atlantic by the first flotilla of landing craft ever to make the ocean crossing; the landings at Sicily, at Salerno and on the Normandy beaches (who now remembers embattled Omaha and grim Utah?); and all the mixture that promising officers receive in peacetime.

More recently, perhaps symbolically, Adm. Sabin had a different sort of assignment. Last August, in Japan, he got his new orders. The most vital strategic area in Southern Asia, the key to all that rich and ill-defended promontory of the Asian land mass towards which the Chinese Communists are so eagerly reaching out, was also to be given to the enemy. Adm. Sabin's new assignment was to command the amphibious force assisting the French in the evacuation of Northern Indo-China.

ANOTHER TRANSFER

From this briskly performed but unimpressive task, the admiral and his ships were again called: once more with maximum urgency to make sure that another important position was smoothly handed over to the enemy. Now it was the Tachen Islands, the next (but will they be the last?) on the list.

In a place of honor, the Estes also has a citation from the Korean government for its performance in the evacuation of Hung Nam, which was a kind of signal that we did not mean to win the Korean War. Looking at this, one of the ship's company remarked: "The old Estes has been through three of them, and the old man's leading his second one. We used to have great emancipators but now I guess we've got great evacuatorers."

It is pleasant, it is comfortable, it is even reassuring to be aboard the Estes—reassuring at least in the sense that whatever its mission may be, the men and the ships of this fleet worthily represent the country that sends them to sea. But somehow the eve of Inchon, in the bleak bowels of a wholly blacked-out marine transport, with the beaches ahead and no one knowing just what they would be like, was really rather nicer than this.

City Council was under fire for relief work pay; married men complaining of $3.50 per day rate and only six days' work in seven weeks in some cases. Mrs. P. B. Scourrah as active and attractive today as then, was president of the Women's Canadian Club when Countess Turczynowich gave an address asking for more tolerance for foreign-born in Canada. For several years the Canadian-born opera singer ran the Victoria Operatic Society.

STRAIT SWIM PLAN

Teddy Slingsby got a two column picture on sports page for announcing he would attempt to swim the strait from Port Angeles on July 4. (To await suspense until July 4, he didn't do it.) Col. Cy Peck V.C., then M.L.A., for Gulf Islands, now in ill-health and living quietly at All Bay, got a rousing welcome back from the Prince of Wales' banquet for V.C. heroes in London.

Car prices, three-year-old Buicks, $395; seven-year-old Chev., $175. Ford touring, $25. New Dodge 6, $1,065. Dodge 8, $1,400.

Only 11 houses offered for sale Wednesday—price range, $1,675 for four rooms in Esquimalt, $2,800 for six-room Victoria home.

Tea was 39 cents per pound; coffee, 35 cents; prime rib roast, 33 cents pound; pork, 28 cents; Australian mutton, 15 cents; men's suits, sale price at Price and Smith's, $19.85.

New Phrases, Old Battle

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON From Washington

CANADA and the United States have been locked for months in a quiet and almost secret struggle arising out of the oldest problem of the North American boundary.

Hutchison

The issues now being argued between Ottawa and Washington are called by new names nowadays, they involve new administrative methods and they involve the entire free world. But essentially they are the same old issues which first emerged when the Canadian colonies decided to build a nation and, in building it, erected Sir John A. Macdonald's National Policy of protectionism.

The current version of the ancient tariff struggle between Canada and the United States arises out of the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade, negotiated at Geneva after the Second World War.

THE United States was the chief architect of a system by which all the signatory nations agreed, first, to reduce their tariffs and, second, to maintain them at the agreed rates during the life of the contract. Canada eagerly accepted these arrangements and probably has been their chief beneficiary in a period of huge and almost unbelievable exports and imports.

But now the United States, parent of GATT, is determined to dilute the contract, despite the protests of Canada and other big trading nations.

A few weeks ago three leading members of the St. Laurent Government appeared mysteriously in Washington to denounce the American policy but they went home knowing quite well that their mission had failed.

The United States is determined, at the expense of inconsistency and foreign anger, to puncture a large and dangerous loophole in the Geneva contract.

BEFORE Canadians make up their minds about this retreat from the original GATT they should understand the economic and political problem of the Eisenhower Government.

It is compelled by law to buy up all the surplus farm products of the nation. It holds huge supplies of foodstuffs presently unsaleable in the domestic or world market. Good weather and continuing heavy crops could increase these surpluses during the next few years.

For these reasons the Government insists that it must have the right—denied to it by GATT—to restrict imports of foreign farm products as it thinks necessary. Actually it has been doing that already, in defiance of the contract, and politely rejecting the pretty blunt protests of the other GATT nations, especially Canada.

Now that the GATT contract is being revised at Geneva the United States demands that the right to impose farm import quotas be established by honest agreement as it has already been exercised (as Canada thinks) illegally.

THE so-called "waiver clause" which the United States wishes to write into the new GATT is not likely to affect Canada much directly. Ottawa does not expect its neighbor to impose any more import quotas than in the past, and these quotas so far have done the Canadian farm industry little serious damage.

But it is one thing to stretch an international agreement between friends and quite a different thing to alter the agreement, to legalize a definite trade restriction and perhaps, in so doing, to pave the way for much larger restrictions in future.

Canada has argued in Washington and Geneva that the waiver clause, though not very damaging in itself, must undermine the world's confidence in GATT and in the real policy of the United States.

If the United States is going to impose sudden restrictions on farm imports, other GATT nations will be encouraged to do the same, and may not stop at farm products. A precedent damaging and in the end perhaps fatal to GATT will be set.

NEVERTHELESS, the United States will not yield on the waiver clause. It therefore presents Canada with three choices at the Geneva conference. Canada could vote for the American policy. It could vote against the policy. Or, as one of the world's three largest traders, it could organize a pressure group among other nations and probably succeed in defeating the policy.

The third choice, at first sight is attractive. On second thoughts it is impossible.

The Eisenhower Government, while compelled by the farm vote to protect the farm economy, is attempting this year to begin a systematic reduction of American tariffs and to simplify its complex and restrictive customs regulations. Having postponed action for a year, to avoid controversy in a Congressional election, the President is determined to fight to a finish this spring for his policy of expanding international trade.

To succeed, he must carry an uncooperative Congress, with the aid of the Democratic majority and at the risk of quarrelling with the right-wing of the Republican minority. This will be a long, tricky and bitter fight at best.

IF THE GATT nations meanwhile reject the American waiver clause they will probably ruin the President's chance of success in the Congress.

Under these conditions the powerful farm bloc would rebel against the whole GATT contract because it failed to protect them. The other protectionist forces in the Congress would say that it was useless to maintain GATT when it refused to consider the peculiar farm problems of the United States.

The defeat of the waiver clause, in fact, would cut the ground of practical politics from under the President's feet.

In that event it probably would be hopeless to expect any reduction in American tariffs and, on the contrary, would be realistic to expect a new upsurge of American protectionism. This, of course, is what Canada wishes to forestall at any reasonable cost because more than half of Canada's exports, the lifeblood of its economy, flow into the American market.

Canada, therefore, will not organize the defeat of the waiver clause at Geneva, but in ordinary consistency, must vote against it. What the other nations will do remains to be seen. And no one can foresee what will happen to GATT and the world trade now thriving within it when the contract has been weakened and the dangerous precedent set.

As Our Readers See It

HE DIDN'T DO IT

In your edition of the 7th of this month, you published a letter entitled "Why Buy Civil Defense," signed by "Subscriber."

Since the letter appeared, my telephone has not stopped ringing, the biggest percentage of calls raising me for bringing this matter to the attention of the people.

Now sir, you know full well I had nothing to do with this letter, and if I had written you I would at least have signed my name.

I will be obliged if you would be kind enough to run this little denial, as I have had quite enough telephone calls to date.

FREE DISCUSSION

Mr. W. Fyfe's letter and the articles by Mr. C. G. Mackenzie and Mr. Arthur Phipps which appeared in your columns recently prompt this letter.

With Mr. Fyfe's letter I fully agree. The great weakness of the churches is shown by their fear of free discussion. Why should they be so fear-ridden? No one of good will wishes them harm. As promoters of fellowship they are of value. Is their fear of free discussion due to anxiety about their authority? If they will be honest in thought they must realize that it has practically gone and that they can only hope to keep the respect of the intellectually honest by entering into free discussion with a view to joining hands with the scientific thinkers and all going forward together. That much-to-be-hoped-for outcome can be brought about sooner through the controversy which has arisen as a result of Mrs. Margaret Knight's BBC broadcast, dealing with the teaching to be given about God, viz., about the origin of the universe. If the holders of conflicting views will discuss the question calmly on all suitable occasions.

Already many young children know that there are divergent views as to the nature of God.

The concepts of a personal god and personal immortality, upon which the arguments for prayer and worship are based, belong to an immature phase in the development of an individual or a group.

To insist on children believing and not questioning statements which their intelligence tells them are unreasonable confuses their minds and puts them on the road to mental distress. The universe is basically beneficial to the human species. Otherwise we should not be here. Because we can talk and so reason—with one another, i.e. converse—we alone of all things in this remarkable universe have the ability to create. Man creates, all else just happens. This being so there is every reason to hold that as long as man is fair to his fellows everywhere we shall ever very long be able to create a world in which all will be able to obtain a moderate and satisfying amount of all the tangible and intangible things that are needful for happy living.

UNKNOWN

I regret my inability to meet the demand of your correspondent, Mr. Tom Jolly, who in your issue of February 7 challenged me to prove that true Christianity has ever been tried.

I freely admit that I do not know what constitutes "real" Christianity. However, I do know that in North America alone we have over 260 different varieties, all of them competitive, conflicting and intolerant, but which one of them is the right one I confess I do not know. However, we have always taught in Canada that our national laws were based on true Christian principles, and that faithful observance of these national laws constituted Christian living. Mr. Jolly thinks otherwise.

Will he admit that we have always considered ourselves a Godlike, God-fearing, God-observing people while frequently referring to other peoples and nations as being "Godless?"

Mr. Jolly also tells us that "God" has a plan for us to follow, that this plan has been pushed into the background, and that we face total extermination unless we revert to this plan. What is his authority, and give us a clear and workable definition of what he means by "real" Christianity.

DEER AND DEATH

Is "Old Logger" ever blowing smoke now? He states that during a severe winter our deer do not starve to death.

If he had gone to the trouble to check with our Game Department biologists and some "Real" loggers, he would find out how right Mr. Atchison is.

My guess is he's referring to Beacon Hill Park in his forty years experience in a vast evergreen playground. That probably accounts for the absence of his signature.

SCIENCE AND PHILOSOPHY

Many great scientists publish their ideas about the origin of the universe, of energy, matter, living things and life in general, but seldom do they go to the true source of wisdom, namely, the Holy Bible.

Blackett, Bohr, Bondi, Hoyle, Gamow, Einstein, Hubble and Jeans and others presume that matter in the form of hydrogen or other light atoms are primal.

The Bible indicates that space is primal and motion secondary. Space is called aether and its spiral vortex motions create all matter and energy units.

Scientists, now mesmerized by their own mathematical symbolism, have discarded the basic fluid aether-space as being primal and thus have lost the basic keys of wisdom and knowledge in the universe.

Fluid aether is the mother of all and spiral dipolar-vortex motion is the father of all energy, matter, life and mind in the universe. Let us make a fresh start in our philosophies.

Wage Earners Benefit

LONDON—The magazine Picture Post has been having a long, hard look at Britain's cost of living and has produced a chart comparing what money bought in 1954 to 1934 and 1914. At first glance it looks fantastic how cheap things were in the old days. It is like looking at the advertisements in an old newspaper and marveling at how little former generations had to pay for things we regard as expensive today.

Taking such commodities as tea, beer, soap, sugar and coal, one sees by the chart that an Englishman's money would buy him in 1934 three times what it does today and five or more times as much in 1914. But it is a great mistake to look at these prices without relating them to what people earn and earned then.

What the rates of pay were in 1914 I don't know but I do know that to take but one example, a stenographer in Britain before the war earned around two pounds a week and now they earn around six pounds. So—they earned a third of what they do now and paid a third of today's prices for most commodities. That seemed to level itself off.

But the researchers of Picture Post have taken the matter much further than this casual personal reaction. They show that most of those who continually complain of the high cost of living and hark back to the "good old days" are doing their harking up the wrong street.

"For three-quarters of all adults in Britain now," says Picture Post, "work has never been easier, better paid, or productive of such high material standards of life."

And those three-quarters of the population are mainly wage-earners. Those who are justified in complaining about inflation, the soaring cost of living and the "new poverty" are those whose incomes are from salaries, pensions, dividends, interest, rents and professional fees. These have lagged, as they always do, behind the rise in wage rates and the additional earnings a man or woman can bring in through overtime and bonuses in an era of full employment.

The old, the rich, the retired, the widow and the professional men are taking the Big Rap. "The rich are fewer than ever before. The social and economic revolution of the last 15 years has benefited the wage earners, almost exclusively. Inflation and taxation have done it between them."

ONE OF THE BEST-SELLING CHRISTMAS-present books was Richard Gordon's "The Captain's Table." It is the first novel of the man who did so well first with "Doctor in the House" and then "Doctor at Sea." The film, "Doctor in the House," was regarded in these parts as the best British comedy turned out for many a year and the studios which made it have everything lined up to start on the ship surgeon sequel, which I felt—as a book—was not a patch on the author's first effort.

REPORTED COMMENT BY SIR WINSTON Churchill in the lobby of the House of Commons: "I've got to take care of myself. After all, Eden can't last forever."

HENRY SAMPSON HAS SPENT MANY years compiling the huge volume, "World Railways" (it weighs seven pounds), and he had long sought information from official sources behind the Iron Curtain about Soviet railways. The authorities had no replies for him. But someone very anonymous in a Soviet government office sent him this cryptic note: "Our railway system is too frightful for description."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Greet Children Happily

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

The other day someone gave me a wonderful idea, and this is that, no matter how miserable parents may feel in the early morning, they should always greet their little children happily and affectionately when perhaps they come running eagerly for a few minutes of snuggling in bed. A happy greeting will do so much to keep the child happy all day; it will start him out right, and it will give him that great sense of security that he craves.

I think all of us human beings can remember days when we got up feeling happy and cheerful and ready to go to work; but then perhaps somebody who had gotten up out of the wrong side of the bed, and who was crabby, unpleasant or fault-finding, or spoiling for a fight got us so upset that the whole morning went wrong.

If this sort of thing can happen to an adult, how much more likely is it to happen to a child whose whole life in life depends on his feeling that his parents love him. Especially if he is adopted or if he has doubt about the love of his father or mother, any unpleasantness with them in the morning is likely to injure him all day.

Yes; I know; many people tell me that when they get up in the morning they "are not fit for human consumption"; they are irritable and grouchy and they would like to snap someone's head off. Usually they feel better after they have got some hot coffee into them. That may be, but still they ought to make a tremendous effort to be pleasant, at least to the children about them. Whenever a child comes running with love in his eyes, and his arms outstretched he should be met with abundant love. Then he knows he is safe.

FINDING JOY IN THINGS

Sometimes when I see people who become terribly exercised and angry and all worked-up over some little thing, I wish they could learn more often to see another and perhaps a happier side to the happening. In many a case there is no really good reason for getting angry, and sometimes a happy or merry sort of person will see a pleasant, or even an amusing aspect to what happened.

Alvarez

I will never forget two people whose behavior one day emphasized this point for me. One was a lonely man who, for weeks, had lain in a hospital bed with a broken hip; the other was the wealthy woman in the next room who had nothing definitely wrong with her except nerves and idleness and a bad temper. Unfortunately, the hospital was an old one, since torn down, with many places in which a little mouse could hide.

One morning when I made rounds, the woman was in a rage and threatening to sue the institution because, two evenings before, she had seen a mouse slip into her room. The first thing in the morning, she had sent her meek little husband out to buy a mouse trap, and that evening she had caught and killed the mouse.

Looking for sympathy, she went next door to tell the man with the broken hip about the indignity she had suffered, but the next minute she was much taken aback when he sat up full of anger and sorrow and screamed at her. "You cruel, cruel woman; you have gone and killed my little mouse; the only joy I had in life. The only thing I had to look forward to every day was the coming of that little mouse to get the food I saved for him, and now you have gone and murdered him!"

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Many parents of children with rheumatic fever have written to ask what the drug was that Dr. Gene H. Stollerman has been using to help children with a bad heart. I just received the December Bulletin on Rheumatic Disease, published by the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, of 23 West 45th Street, New York, 36, N.Y. In this, Dr. Stollerman, of Irvington, N.Y., tells of the remarkable results he and others have been getting by using what is called Benzathine penicillin.

The doctor usually injects intramuscularly a "deposit" of 600,000 units of the compound. This is absorbed slowly over a period of from 12 to 14 days, during which time there is usually enough penicillin in the blood to keep the child from getting a dangerous growth of streptococci in his throat. It is this germ that injures the heart valves and the muscle. An injection of 1.2 million units of the drug results in the presence in the blood of measurable levels of penicillin for a period of three or four weeks. This concentration of the drug appears to be able to protect the child from infection.

The New School Formula

THE LADYSMITH CHRONICLE

From a strictly local point of view, the new school formula and the new system of municipal grants looks good. It puts city residents in the same position that residents of neighboring rural areas have been in for some time—with a lid of sorts on school taxes. The one feature of the proposals which seems disturbing at this early date is the fact that they make the role of a school trustee even less attractive than it is at present and it is hard enough now to find candidates for this onerous public job. The proposal that school budgets must be approved in detail by the department of education would chip another piece away from the small amount of local autonomy which school boards now enjoy. The proposal that the excess of teachers' salaries over the standard scale set out by the department must all be charged to local taxes will put school boards in the squeeze between their teaching staff and the taxpayers they represent to an even greater degree than they are now.

Our Next Lieutenant-Governor?

THE COWICHAN LEADER

Choice of Mr. H. R. MacMillan, CBE, DSc, as B.C.'s next lieutenant-governor would not surprise us, although the thought might well disturb the distinguished industrialist.

The head of the large lumber manufacturing firm of MacMillan & Bledet Ltd. enjoys good relations with the head of the Social Credit government. Mr. MacMillan has a national reputation, even international.

The name of MacMillan has been a household word in B.C. wherever the tang of the fir tree scents the air. Lumbering, as B.C.'s leading industry, would be appropriately recognized by such an appointment. Its turn to supply an incumbent is overdue.

The views of big men are needed in a youthful province. In the disinterested role of lieutenant-governor Mr. MacMillan's forcefulness could bring a greater impact upon the life of this province than is possible within the limits of a company chairman's position.

The Liquor Vote

THE REVIEW, SIDNEY

By far the majority of residents of North Saanich don't care the snap of their fingers whether liquor is sold in the area or not. They proved this point by staying away from the polls in exceedingly large numbers last Thursday. On the other hand a decisive majority of those living on the Gulf Islands are in full agreement with the sale of alcoholic beverages by the glass in all outlets prescribed by the provincial government.

This newspaper is convinced that the provincial government has done the right thing in implementing the recommendations of the commission which investigated the liquor problem in British Columbia two years ago. Last week's vote indicated that British Columbians generally are pretty well satisfied with present conditions. Moreover, liquor sales have not shown any marked increase despite the additional outlets now open.

Calgary CD Plans To Evacuate 40,000

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP) —

A major civil defense evacuation exercise will be carried out here next fall.

The city's civil defense coordinator, C. O. Bell, said he expected 40,000 persons would be evacuated from the city to an area where provincial civil defense authorities would take over.

Bell said anyone refusing to take part in the evacuation would be treated as a casualty.

AUDREY SUGGESTS

Organizing Parties for Trek To Stratford Musical Festival

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

By including this year, in the third annual Stratford Shakespearean Festival, a Stratford Music Festival, our highly successful Canadian cultural achievement takes a big step toward aligning itself with the older and world-famous Edinburgh Festival.

Those who visit Stratford this year between the dates of July 9 to August 5, will not only have an opportunity of seeing richly mounted productions of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" and "Merchant of Venice" and the Greek drama, "Oedipus Rex."

They will hear series of concerts by some of today's famous artists, both in solo recital and in guest appearances with the Hart House orchestra directed by Boyd Neal.

Artists who are to appear include Elizabeth Schwartzkopf, Alexander Schneider, Isaac Stern, Lois Marshall, Glenn Gould, Zara Nelsova, world's greatest female cellist and Akse Scholtz, Danish tenor and leader singer.

These concerts will be held in the Stratford Festival concert hall on the banks of the Avon in Stratford city park, a graceful and charming setting close to the unique theatre-tent.

To the national significance of this enlargement of the Stratford adventure, must be added gratification that room has been found on the roster for two Canadian artists of exceptional worth.

Lois Marshall, whose artistry and beautiful soprano voice are rapidly carrying her to the top level of her career, and Glenn Gould, a pianist who ranks among the foremost on this continent today, well deserve this evidence of the high regard of their countrymen.

It occurs to me to wonder, however, whether the preponderance of those attending the festival and thus chalking up a financial win for "culture," are Canadians or neighbors from across the border.

So far as I can tell, no great numbers of people here in the west have trekked east to Stratford during the summer. An expensive holiday? Certainly. But aren't they all! It's just a suggestion but how about looking at Canada first this year!

Personally I'd like to see music and theatre-lovers forming into bands and approaching transportation companies for special rates to take them to Stratford en masse.

That festival isn't just a localized affair now. It has grown bigger than Ontario—in fact it's just about as big as Canada and expanding every year, until the time will come when its prestige will be known in all the great artistic centres of the world.

GRUBER TELLS ABOUT

Unsung Hero Oboist Of Symphony Concert

At last Monday evening's concert, there was nothing to suggest to the audience that there was anything amiss in the playing of the first oboist.

On the contrary—had I been one of the listeners, unaware of certain circumstances which I shall presently relate, I should have singled out the solo oboe as having learned his rehearsal lessons conspicuously thoroughly.

The truth of the matter is that Roland Dufrane was sight-reading his part Monday night, without the benefit of a single rehearsal.

Owing to the adverse weather (a nice understatement), Bill Couling, who was engaged to play first oboe in the last pair of concerts, and did, in fact, do so on Sunday afternoon, after having rehearsed with us in the morning, was unable to get over to Victoria for Monday evening—for the first time, incidentally, in the history of the orchestra.

Dufrane came over Monday morning on the midnight boat and, to confuse things for a little more, he and I spent Monday morning together going over the second oboe part which was, this time, intended for him, while Alan Macey played back to us the tape recordings he made of the Sunday afternoon concert.

Present also in the theatre on Monday morning was Mr. Cherniavski and the concert master, ONE OF THE TWO.

When it was all over, Cherniavski rushed on stage to the Steinway grand, mumbling (I think, as a matter of fact, cursing) something about a passage he had just heard himself play and which displeased him, and began furiously to practice for the repeat performance in the evening.

Dufrane, declaring himself as satisfied that he knew what was involved in the second oboe part, and taking this music with him in order to spend the afternoon practicing it, went off to lunch with the concert master, the menu being fish and chips, which no one can escape when lunching, dining and, no doubt, breakfasting, with Mr. Evens.

Just after 6 p.m., Mr. Evens phoned me; his voice was sepulchral; he had just had a message from Couling; the latter was grounded in Vancouver.

"Tell Dufrane," said I, "and have Barry Moncur notified to come down and play second oboe again as he did Sunday afternoon."

HE WAS STILL SMILING

I arrived at the theatre a little earlier than usual—I had considerable business with Dufrane, or so I thought.

He was waiting in my dressing room.

The little Belgian was smiling. Smiling? He could not have heard yet I thought to myself. "Get the first oboe parts, quickly!" I said.

"Mais les voici!"—he was still smiling.

I was about to begin pointing out things he was, for heaven's sake, to watch for.

I had hardly begun, and he interrupted me. "Excusez-moi, I once wish to demand, 'ow you

Scholarship Fund To Aid Baritone

To assist one of this city's most outstanding musical talents, a Stanley Martin Scholarship Fund has been inaugurated for the Victoria Baritone, who has already distinguished himself repeatedly on the CBC program, "Singing Stars of Tomorrow." It is hoped, through this, to enable him to pursue his studies and career in Toronto.

Under sponsorship of a group of music lovers, Mr. Martin will be presented in recital at Metropolitan United Church on Tuesday, March 1. He will be accompanied by Grace Timp and assisted by Peter Hodgson, who will play a group of organ solos.

Tickets may be obtained at Victoria Music Centre, View Street, Eaton's music department or the information booth at Hudson's Bay Company.

Guild Crime Play Opens Tonight

An outstanding crime play, "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," opens tonight at the Victoria Theatre Guild's Langham Court Theatre.

In the title role is well known lead actor, Don Ross, with Elizabeth Knight (formerly of the York Theatre Company) playing opposite. Among others in the cast are Connie Thompson—another Guild favorite, Bert Williams, Jack Rowe, Raymond Perks and Charles Martin.

The play commences at 8:15 sharp and will continue nightly through to February 19.

Movietown sage: "Hollywood executives aren't half as smart as the people who tell them they are."

Mellowest Voice In Show Business

The American Speech Stylists Association of Chicago coaxed its collective ear and decided that actress June Allyson has the mellowest female voice in show business and that Clark Gable has the most pleasing male tones. The group said Miss Allyson's voice repudiated an accusation that American women have "harsh" voices.

On Oregon Trail

JOURNEY BY THE RIVER
by John Prescott, Random House, Toronto.

Story of a trek down the Oregon trail 100 years ago, John Prescott writes of the interplay among a representative assortment of heroes, wise men and fools making their way through Indian territory toward a new home. It is plain, though, that his great interest is in the trip itself—the problems, the hardships and the simple pleasures of a hazardous undertaking.

The author, a descendant of pioneers, has traveled extensively in the American west and his evident love for the country combined with a gift for graphic portrayal to lift "Journey By the River" above the common run of "westerns."

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Already a little news about the spring book futures is beginning to filter through the winter blizzards. On the Canadian front I know about two new books which should appear come April. One is Sir Ernest Macmillan's "Music in Canada." The distinguished conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra now stands as one of the pioneer musicians who have spent a lifetime in this land devoted exclusively to the bringing of the great musics of the world to Canadians.

This has not been an easy career at any one of its stages. It is still not easy for any kind of artist to exist in this country, even at the highest level of his field, with no concessions to commercial demands or Phillips time tastes.

Sir Ernest is one of the few who have proved that it can be done and I await with a good deal of interest the book which he is now writing about what he thinks of music in his native land.

Regional History

I also look forward to what I hope will be yet another distinguished contribution to the constantly-growing body of regional history of Canada. Esther Clark Wright, whose last book was the story of the Saint John River, is just finishing "The Loyalists of New Brunswick."

The UEL migration into New Brunswick was a heroic chapter of the history of our settlement and it deserves careful and sympathetic treatment.

I also hear that that indefatigable biographer of the Victorians, Hesketh Pearson, has completed his study of Sir Walter Scott, mentioned in this space some time ago. The title under which it will appear early this spring is "Walter Scott: His Life and Personality."

Several people who share my enthusiasm for Albert Schweitzer have been inquiring about where they can read more about him. As usual, I would suggest that anybody who wants to know more about a writer should start with what that writer has himself written. Apparently there are some folk who do not realize that Schweitzer's writing output is considerable. Without a full biographical statement at hand, I can think of at least fifteen books which he has written. There may be one or two more.

Not Too Difficult

Of these, probably the two major volumes of his philosophy are the most significant and not too difficult either. They appear under the general title, "The Philosophy of Civilization." Volume one is called "The Decay and Restoration of Civilization" and volume two is "Civilization and Ethics." Of his theological work, I think that "Christianity and the Religions of the World" has the most general interest. Then there are the two biographical studies, "Goethe" and "J. S. Bach." In the five autobiographical volumes, "On the Edge of the Primeval Forest" is the one which is most generally known.

Well, those will do for a start for anybody who wants to explore further—and it would be an intellectual adventure well worth taking.

However, if you favor the capsule treatment, try "Albert Schweitzer: An Anthology," arranged by C. R. Joy. It is a capable selection.

The best all-round book about Schweitzer is George Seaver's "Albert Schweitzer: The Man and His Mind," but Dorothea Salmon's "Jungle Doctor" is good reading too. There also is an increasing number of books about various aspects of the great doctor's life and thought which are available in popular editions.

All of this adds up to a rather formidable list for anybody who wants to spend a little time on the subject of Schweitzer. My own experience is that it is time well spent.

Detached Viewpoint

Closer to home a man to attract book-lovers' interest these days is Mason Wade, a native of Vermont who has been increasing his attachment to this country ever since he became interested in the writing of Francis Parkman and wrote a book about him in 1942. In 1946, Mr. Wade published "The French-Canadian Outlook," and on a visit to this country at that time he struck me as a very good kind of man to have concentrating on French-English relations here.

His most recent publication is a monumental (1,136 pages) study, "The French-Canadians, 1760-1945." I have by no means digested all of this yet, but it looks like an objective treatment which should clarify a good deal of the problem about which Canadians like to talk so much.

ROAD TO ST. SIMON, by A. Y. Jackson... In the Group of Seven Show opening Tuesday at the Gallery.

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

There used to be a small room on the third floor of the National Gallery at Ottawa in which were hung a score or so of brilliant little oil sketches by Tom Thomson and the Group of Seven. All this is changed now, I gather, and Thomson has a whole room to himself. But a dozen years ago this little room was, to me, the most absorbing and exciting in the entire building.

There was something curiously compelling about the row of Thomsons as one came in, strung out like a series of varicolored gems and having the stamp of conviction and self-effacing sincerity. It always seemed worthwhile bolting a couple of dry lunch-hour sandwiches and taking a quick bus from the office to spend a few minutes with the Thomsons, Jacksons, Macdonalds and Harries.

The fascination which the work of the group has exercised over the eastern Canadian mind and, to a lesser extent, over the rest of Canada, has its roots in factors some of which are connected with painting and some not.

The Canadian in those days who was unaware of the group's achievement (and there was almost no opportunity in the West for getting to know of it) was apt to assume that one could dismiss the whole of Canadian painting as being too minor and too imitative of European models to be worth taking seriously. A deep and largely unconscious sense of cultural inferiority made one doubt the possibility of any Canadian making a fresh and original contribution to painting. Hence the shock of

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

Further information regarding the abolition of the Leeward Islands stamps has come to hand. It now seems that the individual islands which make up the group will still retain their own stamps, and that only the general issue inscribed "Leeward Islands" (used concurrently) will be dropped. This set can well be spared as far as workmanship and appearance are concerned, but as an investment should be worth getting while current.

Jamaica's Queen set will probably appear next month. There will be 16 stamps in all, the low values to be in the usual small portrait type, while the higher denominations will be pictorial. The 2½d value, which was dropped from the George VI series, will now reappear, due to a rise in the rate to British overseas territories, while a new value, a 5d, will take care of the new rate for foreign letters. Several of the designs will be based on sketches by Philip Hart, a 19-year-old student of Jamaica College, according to the "West Indian Philatelist."

Some of our current Canadian postcards which have been revalued by a surcharge, due to the raise in the rate, are proving difficult to get hold of. Only one or two varieties seem to be carried at any one post office (to judge by our local office), and they are not stocked by the philatelic section at Ottawa.

BEASTALL SAYS

Grafting Adds Fruit Variety When Garden Space Limited

There is a time in the life of every gardener when the urge to do some grafting or budding becomes irresistible.

This urge usually develops around mid-April. At this date it is impossible to get the required wood for the job unless previous thought has been given to the matter.

Should you suspect the presence of grafting fever in your system, prepare for it now by collecting the scion (or cion) wood which will be needed.

While some may think grafting to be an unnecessary game played by gardeners of unstable mind, it has a very definite place in the small garden.

Limited garden space makes grafting a wise procedure, where but one fruit tree can be grown, it is possible to have more than one variety of the fruit, and when an old tree has passed its usefulness it can be rejuvenated.

But the greatest asset in the small garden obtains in the case of fruits needing cross pollination for bearing. By grafting a branch of the pollinating variety to the existing tree fruiting results without turning the garden into an orchard.

Scions, the pieces which are grafted to the stock or existing tree, must be collected while the buds are dormant, and kept in a dormant condition until the stock is starting into growth.

Care in the selection of scion material is important. It is taken from strong, vigorous shoots of the previous season's growth, which show plump, well-matured buds.

The length and thickness of the scions will vary with the kind of fruit and the different varieties of a given kind, but pencil thickness and three or four buds in length after being prepared for insertion is about the general size.

Consideration must also be given the tree from which the scions are taken because all characteristics, both good and bad, will be reproduced in the growth resulting from the graft. Young trees, in good health and with high production habits, give more desirable scions than old trees of poor bearing qualities.

Firm, well ripened wood is essential, and shoots with winter damage indicated by brown pith should be avoided.

WIDER CHOICE
When taking the scions, cut the wood considerably longer than needed and collect about double the quantity you expect to use. This gives some choice of material when time comes for grafting.

Keeping the scions dormant until the trees start into growth is not such a problem as one may suspect. Cool temperatures and dampness are needed, but free water will cause rotting.

The simplest procedure is to tie the scions in bundles of about 10, firmly attaching a label showing the variety name, and placing the bundles upright in a six-inch-deep trench on the north side of building, wall, or fence, with the soil firmed around them.

Storing in damp sawdust or sand in a cool place is also done, but outside storage in a well-drained spot is often safer for the home gardener.

More Lighting Adds To Living Space

A lighting specialist for one of the largest electrical manufacturing concerns says most home owners can "double" the size of their homes at an average cost of $100.

The trick is in installing a more efficient electrical system, and extending new wiring to hitherto unused portions of the home.

Beggs explained that many home owners "are putting in basement recreation rooms, made possible, of course, because of lighting. Others are lighting their gardens and enjoying outdoor living in the cool of the evening.

Expressing Strength and Character

Every detail of this fine home expresses strength and enduring character. Roof lines are exceedingly simple, being broken only by the well-proportioned chimney. Millwork is similarly clean-cut—the only embellishment being simple shutters for the bedroom window and just enough molding to

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Poinsettia Culture

By JACK BEASTALL

Q.—I have a poinsettia I wish to keep; please advise on culture for flowering next Christmas.

A.—After the bracts have faded cut the plant to one-third its height or about six inches above the top of the pot. Keep dry until April, then place in warm temperature and give water. In a warm moist atmosphere at 65 degrees cuttings should be rooted, growing these on in a moist close atmosphere until October. At this stage they will require a night temperature of 60 degrees and a higher day temperature to make and color the bracts. A greenhouse with reasonably good control of conditions is necessary for success.

Q.—What disease causes hollow centres in potatoes?

A.—This results from growing conditions, not a disease. Any condition which causes a check in growth, followed by conditions which promote rapid growth, will rupture the centre fibres. As the tuber expands, the damaged fibres dry and leave the hollow centre. Some potato varieties are susceptible to hollow centre, and if it persists in future crops it would be wise to try another variety.

Q.—Can sand from the beach, taken above high water mark, be used for rooting cuttings?

A.—Beach sand, regardless of its salt content, is too fine for horticultural use. A coarse grade of sharp building sand, usually called greenhouse sand, is necessary for success with cuttings.

Work for Nothing

A carpenter had just put the finishing touches on a new enclosed porch at the home of the Morris Rumaners in Syracuse.

As he and Mrs. Rumaner admired the work, a driverless auto raced down a hill, slammed into the new room, pushed out a large section of the wall and bounced a sofa across the room.

Industry Curbs Colonization

The stepped-up pace of industrialization in Quebec has forced the Department of Colonization to forego any large-scale settlement plans for 1955 and consolidate families already on new land, it was learned today.

Stanislas Begin, deputy minister of colonization, said officials of his department "will use their time, energy and efforts to help the 20,000 families already relocated in the various colonization parishes of the province."

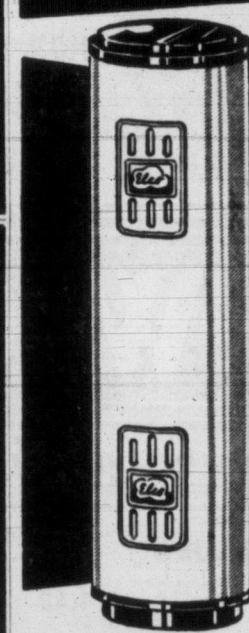

These settlements are spread over thousands of acres in northwestern Quebec's Abitibi and Temiscaming regions, on the Gaspé Peninsula, in the Lake St. John area and in the Matapédia Valley, Rimouski, Lotbinière, Dorchester and north shore regions.

WEEK'S GARDEN WORK

For Summer Blooms

By JACK BEASTALL

Plant outdoors, anemones and Ranunculi for early summer blooms.

Sow indoors: salpiglossis, petunia, larkspur, schizanthus, ten-week stock, Dianthus hedewigi (Japanese pink), Dianthus chinensis (Indian pink). All are annuals for flowering outdoors this summer.

Delphinium and gaillardia may be sown indoors, many gardeners growing these as biennials.

Sow outdoors in well-drained row, a few early peas.

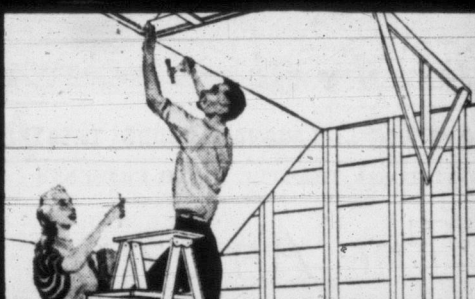

Seed potatoes set to sprout should have all but two or three shoots removed.

If raised bed is available, sow outside short rows of carrots, radish, parsley, lettuce.

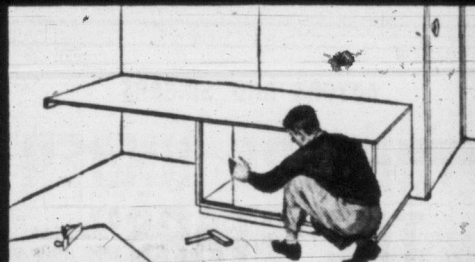

Planting of trees, shrubs, perennials may be done providing soil is not wet and heavy.

WEEK-END REVIEW

Confidence Returns to Market After Sharp One-Day Setback

By GEORGE LINTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets plunged early this week, then soared next day with one of the sharpest reversals on record.

Monday trade was uneventful but Tuesday selling came in heavy waves. At New York, the ticker tape lagged as much as six minutes in recording floor sales and at Toronto the tape had to run nine minutes overtime.

The break at New York was one of the year's worst, pushing prices down as much as three points. At Toronto, declines were the steepest in more than a month.

The selloff was blamed on uncertainty over the international situation caused by appointment of Marshal Bulganin to fill Malenkov's shoes as Russian premier.

Uncertainty, however, appeared to last just one day as buying orders poured into the markets Wednesday and prices soared.

Brokers said corporate developments were behind most of the new gains. New York boomed in one of the strongest advances of 15 years, and Toronto climbs were the greatest in more than four months.

Toronto's industrial index ended the week at 383.19, less than three points below the Jan. 3 1955 figure of 385.93, best since the Toronto exchange began the index in 1934.

Industrial Average Climbs to New Peak

Wall Street Continues to Do Heavy Trade In War Issues Following Moscow Shuffle

By ELMER C. WALKER, United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks continued their long ascent this past week after a bit of a setback when Russia changed premiers.

On Tuesday, the industrial average slipped 3.89 points. It had dipped 17 cents on Monday.

On Wednesday Wall Street reappraised the Russian incident. Stocks turned around and moved up with such vigor that the losses of the previous two days were more than wiped out. Except for rails-off Friday—the rise continued through the week.

Trading increased over the previous week with daily sales averaging 3,421,685 shares, against 3,254,201 shares the week before.

The Dow-Jones industrial average closed the week at 413.99, up 4.23 points and a record closing high; railroads, 145.52, up 2.15 but off about a point from the high since 1930, made Jan. 3; utilities, 63.66, up 85 cents and a new high since 1931.

Speculators and investors alike continued to favor the war stocks. Railroad issues enjoyed a spurt on Wednesday. They rose further Thursday and then had a 50-cent setback on Friday. This group has been lagging somewhat compared with the performance of the other major sectors.

Utilities were given a lift by several strong issues. Consolidated Edison helped carry the average higher on Friday after an announcement that the company was planning a power plant fueled by atomic energy.

Standard Oil Company (N.J.) strengthened when its subsidiary, Creole Petroleum, split its stock and ran up 21 points on the week.

GEN. DYNAMICS LEAD
General Dynamics was the wide mover on the share market. It gained 14 1/2 points on the week. There were several other wide movers, including Republic Steel in its department, Aluminum Company, and Johns-Manville.

General Motors made news by announcing a price of $75 for its new stock and declaring a $1 dividend. The latter was considered disappointing since many had anticipated a rise or an extra. The stock moved higher after a bit of profit-taking.

Chrysler Corporation issued its report for 1954, showing a sharp drop in earnings. The stock, however, managed to net a small gain on the week because its operations recently have been stepped up sharply compared with last year.

American Telephone & Telegraph met heavy demands from investors and rose three points on the week. Western Union was pushed up sharply on a four-for-one split-up proposal.

As the market continued its rise, there was talk of a possible increase in margin requirements and probably some further pressure on market credit.

Brokers said the behavior of the list since the first of the year indicated a consolidation movement under the cover of strength in individual issues and many predicted further gains, margin hike or not.

Canada Boasts 6,000 Flowing Oil Wells

$400 Million Slated To Be Spent For Developing Industry in '55

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Canada has become the Western Hemisphere's third largest oil producer because it has been receptive to exploration by U.S. and foreign companies, the trade magazine Petroleum Engineer said today.

Since 1946, Canada's proven oil reserves have increased from 72,000 barrels to 3,000,000,000 (B), the magazine said. Refinery capacity has grown from 40,000 barrels to 560,000 barrels per day. Natural gas reserves have doubled since 1952 to 14,000,000,000 (trillion) cubic feet.

The magazine said oil companies plan to spend $400,000,000 for Canadian development in 1955. It added:

"Refinery and transportation activity will be slightly lower, but drilling and exploration continues at an active pace."

Canada now has more than 6,000 producing wells, and only one well has been drilled for each 178 square miles of productive oil areas, compared with one to every 12 square miles in the United States.

"This, in itself, gives some idea of what the future development in Canada may be," N. E. Tanner, president of the Trans

CONSUMER'S VIEW

Housewife Tells Hardware Men What's Wrong

TORONTO (CP)—A former Saskatchewan woman, now living in Toronto, told Canada's hardware merchants this week what was wrong with their business.

Mrs. W. R. Walton, representing the Canadian Association of Consumers, spoke at a luncheon meeting at the Canadian Retail Hardware Association's annual exhibition.

Mrs. Walton, formerly of 2,262 of record at the association in its 50-year history.

YOU'RE STUCK

Some women shoppers are difficult, impractical, cheats, unfair and unreasonable, she said. "But you're stuck with them, and the hardware business has been slow to understand them."

She listed several consumer complaints including: Sink strainers that don't strain; can openers that bend and tear the can; badly-painted articles where paint flakes into the food; spoons that melt or char; metal egg poachers that won't hold a grade A large size egg; plastic articles that bend out of shape.

Russian Ship Order Killed

OTTAWA (CP)—The trade department has rejected an application by the East-West Trading Company of Vancouver for a permit to build and export cargo ships to Russia.

A spokesman said the application was rejected on the grounds specifications indicated the vessels would be of strategic value to the Soviet in the event of war.

The government last fall reduced regulations and controls on trade with Communist countries in nonstrategic goods but still maintains tight embargoes on items which might prove strategic in a military way.

Officials have stated they might allow export of certain ships to Russia, but only if they are sure the vessels will be used purely for commercial purposes.

Canada has sold no ships to Russia since the end of the Second World War.

Bank clearings in Victoria week totalled $827,108 more than they did one year ago.

Victoria Clearing House reports cheques handled this week amounted to $7,903,696. The figure for the same week in 1953 was $7,076,588.

Car Output in U.S. Hits Highest Peak

By WALTER BREEDER JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Production of many raw materials and consumer goods thrust to all-time peaks in the United States this week but consumer buying was a little lower.

The list of records was impressive. Automobile output in the U.S., estimated at 167,095 cars, was the highest for any week on record.

Also at record levels were production and refining of crude oil and production of electric power. The steel output climbed to its highest point in 16 months.

Latest government figures on the building industry showed spending on new construction in January at a record for that month.

SURGE OF OPTIMISM

The upturn in industrial activity was accompanied by a new surge of optimism in Wall Street.

Dollar volume of retail trade, including purchases of food, automobiles and gasoline, as well as home furnishings and apparel, was down a little for the week. Department store sales, at latest available count, dipped below the year-ago level for the first time in 1955.

Retail sales of new automobiles continued to lag behind the blistering production pace set by the manufacturers. General Motors, running for a new high, sparked the week's record output of passenger cars with Chevrolet building just under 40,000. Overtime and Saturday shifts were scheduled by Ford and Plymouth.

With 19-6 production well into its second month, interest centred in Chrysler's fight to regain its traditional 20 per cent slice of the auto market. Latest figures showed retail sales of all Chrysler makes—Chrysler, DeSoto, Dodge and Plymouth—exactly 20 per cent of the industry's January total.

Steel production—highest since October, 1953—climbed to 87.4 per cent of capacity, equivalent to 2,110,000 tons. Construction activity eased but the decline from December was smaller than usual.

The Happiest Hoopsters in Town

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Western Hockey League president Al Leader, and Kenny Reardon, ambassador-at-large for the Montreal Canadiens, share top billing today.

Leader was a visitor at the Cougar-Edmonton Flyer game here Wednesday night, and offered some interesting possibilities on the future of the league.

Reardon's handsome features were well photographed by the TV cameras the same evening as he put the game on a broader scale, while hinting dire things for the west later this spring.

It is spring, isn't it? Mr. Leader was here in his official capacity, which he usually is. And this time the topic for discussion was the expansion of the Western Hockey League.

"Regina," he said, "is in. They were granted entry last year to ice a team next season, and from discussions I have had with them, there is nothing to indicate the contrary."

"Spokane? I don't know," he replied. "But they are interested. So far their interest has only reached the discussion stage."

"They have a beautiful arena," Mr. Leader commented of the Spokane Coliseum, which received full play in a well-known national magazine. "It will seat 6,500 and the best part of it is that it is centrally located in the heart of town."

Mr. Leader opined that the big difficulty with Spokane under the present composition of the western part of the WHL is working out a suitable schedule to conform with travel facilities.

More Here Than Meets the Eye

"Spokane would want Saturday nights," he said, which lends to the suggestion that possibly their application for a franchise is a trifle more concrete than Mr. Leader will admit at this time.

"And it could be worked out," he continued of the schedule, "although it would mean heavy traveling for coast league clubs following Friday night games."

(In that regard general manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cougars inquired of your agent what night was the most suitable for hockey here. The reply was "Friday." It is more of a "free" evening, it seems. Saturday, it was suggested, has become a "social" night.

Regarding other coast possibilities, Mr. Leader didn't appear to harbor much hope for Seattle or Tacoma at present. He intimated Portland might be interested as there was talk of renovating the old arena there while awaiting construction of the new ice palace; but he seemed to think it wasn't likely a move would be made this season. Winnipeg is reported as being interested, but there, too, rumor is the guiding hand.

Has Kenny Changed Horses?

Now to Mr. Reardon, who hasn't graced the Cougars with his presence yet this season (which must mean there is little cause for concern).

It was Mr. Reardon's supposition that prospective hockey talent is more prevalent in eastern Canada at present than in the west. He gave the WHL full marks for being a better-than-average professional league. Then he tossed his personal bombshell, and Victorians must have reverberated slightly from the effect of the shock waves.

Mr. Reardon's contention, and it certainly seemed like a parting shot at the west, was that any WHL club which goes east this year may have more than their evenings' work cut out for them in the Edinburgh Cup series at, you know where:

If you don't, Shawinigan Falls is the place. The coach? Roger Leger.

Being from Victoria, need we say more? And neither did Mr. Reardon.

Senators Spill Royals In Minor Ice Playoffs

Cellar dwelling Senators, won their first game of the season by forcing league champion Royals to their first defeat 3-2 at Memorial Arena Thursday night. It was opening game of a best-of-three semi-final series in bantam division playoffs.

The other contest saw third-place Bruins edge second-place Capitals 4-3 in the first game of another best-of-three semi-final series.

Braves Get Aid

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP)—Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Hockey League announced Friday they have acquired Pierre Brilliant, 23-year-old left winger, and Camille Bedard, 22-year-old defenseman, from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

Jim Galbraith, Ron Campbell and Bob Jones scored for Senators. Vic Wescott and Dave Emery, tallied for the Royals.

Gary Millard led the Bruins with two goals while Blair Kilby and Toby Wilson scored one goal apiece.

Wayne Williams, Roy Plaxton and Ken Jay scored for Capitals.

GETTING DOWN TO FUNDAMENTALS are coach Busher Jackson, one of the many former stars who devote their time to Church League basketball, and 13-year-old Dave Black.

To Seek Speed Mark

ULLSWATER, Eng. (AP)—The son of England's late Sir Malcolm Campbell said Friday that he hoped to make a stab at the world speedboat record in the spring.

Donald Malcolm Campbell said tests on his new hydroplane, Bluebird, were better than expected and he would open her up in about three weeks to see how the craft goes at high speed.

Brier Representative

GALT, Ont. (CP)—Andy Grant's Toronto Royal Canadians Friday night won the 18th annual Ontario Curling Association single rink championship and will represent Ontario in the Dominion championships at Regina early in March.

Saxton Defeated

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Ronnie Delaney of Akron won an upset decision over welterweight champion Johnny Saxton in a 10-round non-title bout at the arena Friday night. The referee and both judges gave the unranked local fighter the nod.

Eskis Get Burris

EDMONTON (CP)—Centre Kurt Burris of Oklahoma, chosen for several All-American teams, has agreed to play in 1955 for Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Edmonton announced today the signing of the 22-year-old, 205-pound lineman who was the No. 1 draft choice of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns.

Once upon a time, the Church League was the biggest thing in city basketball. Many of the players who made the name of Victoria famous in Dominion hoop circles, when Victoria was a Canadian championship city, learned their basketball with Sunday school teams.

If the example set by the First United Church could be duplicated, it is possible that those days could return and that basketball could regain its popularity.

Three years ago, First United Church members opened a fund drive.

The result of that drive is a new basketball gymnasium, completed at a cost of $103,000, every cent of which was supplied by the church.

The gym will have its official opening tonight when First United pre-midnight team, players between nine and 12, will take on a Shawinigan Lake pre-midnight team.

The feature game at 8:30 brings together First United midgets and Vancouver College midgets. Both First United teams lead their respective divisions in the city league, in which they are also entered. (See "Week's Work," page 11.)

Vic High Runners Win

Victoria High School cross-country team won their second major race in three weeks as they out-distanced Oak Bay High in a 2.8-mile event at Vic High Thursday.

Jim Pickup, leading the winners all the way, finished 300 yards in front of schoolmate Ian Fraser. John Gilliland and Doug McFadyen of Victoria High placed third and fourth, respectively.

Dennis Cullimore, the first Oak Bay runner home, was eighth.

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Billy Joe Patton said Wednesday he plans to play in this year's British amateur golf tournament.

Terry Rests—'Nothing More' But Glen Could Change Plan

By The Canadian Press

Terry Sawchuk's shaky nerves may get shakier.

He won't be in the nets for Detroit Red Wings when they meet Toronto Maple Leafs tonight because he needs a rest. But the move to ease his National Hockey League fatigue may not have the all-soothing effects. Glen Hall may see to that.

Hall is the 23-year-old netminder from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League with whom the Red Wings have elected to ride while Terry seeks peace and contentment far from flying pucks.

Sawchuk was benched Wednesday for the first time in his five-year career in big-league hockey. The Red Wings insisted he was out for a three-game rest and "nothing more."

There's no telling what will happen if Hall puts the whammy on opposing snipers. It could mean Sawchuk's bread and butter will be in jeopardy.

Pesky Canucks Won't Lie Down

Trim Flyers; Meet Cougars Here Tonight

Vancouver 6, Edmonton 3

Vancouver Canucks will be singing their now famous theme song when they meet Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena tonight.

"There's hope yet," is the title of the piece Canucks will carry with them into battle at Memorial Arena.

Knocked down, battered and all but counted out of the Western Hockey League playoff picture several times this season, the Canucks came off the ice Friday night at Vancouver to humiliate the league-leading Edmonton Flyers, 6-3.

The victory left the Canucks still with a chance of taking fourth place. And as the Cougars are first in line, although with designs of a higher nature themselves, tonight's contest is another crucial one in the Canuck itinerary.

They now trail the Cougars by eight points and the second place New Westminster Royals and Calgary Stampede by 10.

Just as Canucks will be leveling on cutting down that deficit, the Cougars will be leveling on the Stamps and the Royals, both of whom see action. The Royals are home to the Flyers and Stamps test the Quakers at Saskatoon.

McLeod Healers Friday night it was Jackie McLeod the right winger came late from Saskatoon as a replacement for Bill Ezindki, now with the Rangers who supplied the punch. McLeod got two goals as did Billy Dea. Wiggy Wylie and Gordon Hudson got the others.

The third period was a brawly affair with Larry Zeidel and Phil Maloney supplying the highlights, first with a fight on the ice, Zeidel later punching Maloney as the pair sat in the penalty box. The action cost Zeidel a $50 fine and a game misconduct. Game time tonight is 8:30.

How ever, Gutoski made things easier for Ryalls later in the day by beating the Miller rink of Vancouver, 8-7, in a 13-ender. Miller's rink had been undefeated before that match, and the loss gave Ryalls the "A" championship, qualifying him for the final against the "B" section leader, the winner to be named provincial representative. Frank Avery of Vancouver and Reg. Stone of Trail meet today to decide the "B" section finalist.

On Friday morning, Gutoski was eliminated from the "B" event of the challenge series when he lost to Scotty Ross of Trail, 12-5. But he entered the 16's of the "E" event, downing Warrington of Brairone, 12-2.

Glen Walkey of Victoria gained the semi-finals of the "C" event of the Kamloops Bonspiel, with a 9-8 win over McKinnon of Kamloops. He also reached the 16's of the "F" event by beating Bessette of Kamloops, 10-7. Max Zabel of Victoria also fared well Friday, scoring three victories. Zabel scored wins over Dunbar and Bailey to enter the 16's of the "E" event and moved into the 16's of the "F" event after beating Moores of Kamloops.

Birdies Real Handy as Rosburg Holds Lead

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Birdies on the final two holes gave Bob Rosburg of San Francisco the lead in the $10,000 open golf tournament at the end of 36 holes Friday with a seven-under-par 133.

Rosburg played at the height of a desert sand storm that subsided after he was finished. A group of three finished one stroke behind Rosburg. They were Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif.; Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Ill., and Fred Wampler of Indianapolis.

Rosburg was one of a dozen pros who came to Tucson suffering from the flu. He was co-leader at the end of the first 18 holes and word drifted back to the clubhouse that he had blown on the first two holes. He drove into the rough, hit trees and missed putts to go two over par.

Unflustered, he rallied on the final two holes for a two-under-par 68 for 6,400-yard El Rio Golf and Country Club course. The field was cut to the low 60 pros and ties Friday.

Scores of 144 and better qualified for today's third round.

NEWFOUNDLAND CHAMPS. CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—The St. John's rink skipped by Norman Rockwell Thursday night won the Newfoundland curling championship.

HARD LUCK LOSER

Tony Kept 'Em Honest

(Special to the Times)

KAMLOOPS—They'll remember the Tony Gutoski rink of Victoria, long after the British Consols provincial curling championships have been concluded.

The Gutoski foursome put up a furious fight Friday before being deprived of the chance of representing the province at the Macdonald Brier in Regina next month.

Gutoski was handed his second Consols defeat Friday and the tough 8-7 loss, at the hands of Nelson's Milt Ryalls in an extra end, ended all hope of the Victoria rink qualifying for the B.C. championship.

Needing a victory in every match, Gutoski ran into hard luck in his match with Ryalls. The Nelson rink counted once in the last end, by the scantiest margin, to tie the score, and then won the match when Gutoski was slightly heavy with a draw shot on the extra end.

How ever, Gutoski made things easier for Ryalls later in the day by beating the Miller rink of Vancouver, 8-7, in a 13-ender. Miller's rink had been undefeated before that match, and the loss gave Ryalls the "A" championship, qualifying him for the final against the "B" section leader, the winner to be named provincial representative. A Week's Work

By DENNY BOYD

A lot of sports fans get mad at the church because of the question of Sunday sports.

When these people get mad they say things they really don't mean and which are unjustified, like "Trouble with those church people is they don't give a hoot about sports."

This talk isn't right and if you disagree, don't call me a liar right away. Go up to the First United Church gym tonight and see for yourself. See what this church has done to help kids find the right road to a good life, using basketball to strengthen their bodies and minds.

Do you know what these people have done for kids who are interested in sports? They have built a $103,000 gymnasium that right now is catering to about 80 kids a week.

Don't worry, you won't be paying for this gym out of your taxes. That has been taken care of by the members of the First United Church, who, three years ago, set out to do something constructive in curbing juvenile delinquency. They started a funds drive within their church with the idea of building more Sunday schools.

But a couple of fellows named Harold Turner and Paul Beere suggested that the money be used for a gymnasium, since there was no shortage of churches.

The suggestion was well-taken, so well, in fact, that there is a gym on Cormorant Street, just behind the First United Church, that is just this side of fabulous.

These Youngsters Go First Class

The exterior is of smart brick. The interior is finished and beautifully trimmed. In light woods, the arched ceiling seems to reach the clouds and there is enough light to read the fine print on a bill of sale.

Downstairs, there are dressing rooms and a tiled shower that guarantees that Junior will come home smelling like a rose.

There is a kitchen for the kids' parties, a projection room for showing movies, a stage with a movie screen and room to store the chairs used in the Sunday school classes.

CONTRACT TALKS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Redskins say Ralph Guglielmi, Notre Dame's All-American quarterback, will come here Feb. 20-21 for further talks on signing a football contract for next season.

By HANS SCHAFER, United Press Sports Writer
KREFELD, Germany (UP)—German ice hockey experts today favored Canada over the Soviet Union to win the 1955 world amateur ice hockey championship.

These experts said Czechoslovakia would be the most likely country to produce an upset.

Penticton V's will represent Canada at the tourney.

Altogether nine teams—title defender Soviet Russia, Canada, the United States, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Switzerland, Poland and Germany—will compete in the Feb. 25-March 6 tournament in the four Rhineland stadiums of Cologne, Duesseeldorf, Dortmund and Krefeld.

The Russians began preparing for the championships last September when they did their practicing in the East Berlin "Werner Seelenbinder Halle" indoors stadium. In October, they took part in the international "Velvet and Silk" tournament in the Rhineland and won first place in the overall classification.

Naming of the Soviet team for the forthcoming tournament also makes clear that the Russians mean business since they will mostly rely upon their experienced veterans. Only three newcomers were included on their squad.

All German ice hockey experts asked by the United Press agreed that the show will shape-up in a grueling battle between Canada and the Soviets—with Canada emerging as the most likely winner.

JACKIE TO SHOW IN MEXICO

VANCOUVER (CP)—Toronto's Jackie Macdonald is back on Canada's first team to enter the pan-American games.

Fred Rowell, chairman of the games committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said here Friday night Miss Macdonald will enter the discus event in the games at Mexico City March 12-16.

Miss Macdonald was dropped when the AAU of C found there was no shot put event in the games.

She got back into the track and field team after Rowell heard Murray Cockburn, also of Toronto, was sick at University of Southern California in Los Angeles. Cockburn was entered in the 400 and 800-metre and the 400 and 1,600-metre relays.

PRESTIGE AT STAKE

Bruno Leinweber, superintendent of the ice hockey section of the National Ice Sports Association, said it would be a matter of prestige for the Canadians.

"Canada is fully determined to bargain her prestige in the forthcoming world tournament after they were pushed into second place by the Soviets last year," Leinweber said. "With regard to speed, the Canadians should be equal, if not superior to the Russians. In my opinion the Canadians are also tougher than the Russians. The Canadians are born ice hockey players and when they are rolling, you cannot stop them."

Leinweber, however, warned that the Canadians must take their task more seriously than they did at Stockholm last year.

Your Dog And Mine

By TAILWAGGER

By this time, the puppy you may have received as a Christmas gift, must be growing up fast. If he is allowed the free run of the house take care that such things as shoes and slippers are placed out of his reach.

Pups are apt to chew the corners of mats and rugs, and by scratching them can do irreparable damage, and what a pup can do in a few minutes to a pair of gloves is remarkable. All these are very good reasons for providing him with an indoor kennel of some sort where the little fellow can be kept when the housewife has to go out or leave him for any length of time.

TO DIVERT ATTENTION

When he is loose in the house you must keep an eye on him all the time, for if he is out of your sight for more than a minute or two, you are likely to find him sharpening his teeth on one of the polished legs of your dining table.

I have found it a good method to give the pup an old shoe to play with, he soon learns that it is his own property and helps to distract his mind from more valuable things. It will also help him to gradually get rid of his puppy teeth. These sharp, needle-like dentures have all appeared by the seventh or eighth week, and when he is about four months old the permanent teeth are usually showing. Usually these baby teeth loosen and come out naturally, and the play with the old shoe will help this process.

Sometimes, however, a permanent tooth will appear behind a baby tooth and seemingly wedge it so tightly and firmly that it refuses to budge. Neglect of this situation may cause a slight malformation in later life, so if this occurs, take the puppy to the vet and he will quickly and painlessly remove the obstinate baby tooth.

Kinsmen Frolic to Mark Final Payment on Polio Pool

Final $2,000 payment on $8,000 hydro-therapy pool at Jubilee Hospital was made Friday by B.C. Polio fund through its local sponsors, Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen.

To celebrate the occasion as well as publicize the Mothers' March for funds next Saturday, club president Whitey McKay, and member Bob Whysker, Jr., gave in to impulse to take a dip in the warm-water pool.

Mothers' March, not to be confused with Solarium Junior League's "Shower of Dimes" now under way, will see an army of women canvassers cover Greater Victoria area between 6.30 and 7.30 p.m. a week today, seeking contributions to help carry on anti-polio work.

Last year the Mothers' March resulted in collections of $39,000.

Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen have signed 2,600 canvassers of 3,000 needed for the march this year. Volunteers can enlist by phoning 2-9241.

The hydrotherapy pool at Jubilee Hospital is the only such general hospital pool in B.C., and since its completion recently it has been used for treatment of polio, multiple sclerosis, arthritis and cerebral palsy victims.

Money was put up by the polio fund, provincial government and Jubilee Hospital. First $2,000 contribution was made last year by North Kiwanis Club, which put the fund under way.

Most of the cost is not apparent in construction because of equipment located underneath the floor. Besides special filtering beds, circulating pumps and water heating coils there is a chlorine injector which makes transmission of germs through the water virtually impossible.

September Meet At Sidney Track

Mayor's Claim Mystifies Defense Dept.

Gordon Head Site Not in Army Plans

A statement by the mayor Thursday that the Department of National Defence intends to repossess city-owned airport site at Gordon Head has apparently mystified army and air force officials at Ottawa.

Times Ottawa correspondent Victor Mackie reports today that neither service has any plans whatever for the 57.6 acres which the city holds near the old army camp.

According to Ald. Don Smith the suggestion that the army wants to buy back the airport site was made in an effort to save face.

City had abandoned plans for a heliport on the site and was investigating other means of disposal of the land. Ald. Smith held that to be illegal. He said the land was sold to the city in 1947 for $20,000 on the understanding that it be used only for aeronautical purposes. It was hoped that these strings would be removed by payment of another $10,000 by the city.

Ald. Smith asked that council be provided with a legal opinion when the matter was debated two weeks ago. The opinion was slated for last Thursday but was struck from the agenda before the meeting opened.

MORE THAN RUMOR

When Ald. Smith asked why the mayor told him, "There is a rumor, more than a rumor really, that the land will be required for Her Majesty's Service."

But according to Ald. Smith today, the real reason council was not read the legal opinion was that the proposed disposal was found to be illegal.

Rather than admit the error, it was decided to drop the matter on the excuse the army wants the land back, he said. Esquimalt Garrison commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. J. C. Cave, said today that he has no knowledge of any intended use of the airport site by the army. He added that army engineers had queried disposal of the land during chance conversation with city officials. He thought it was that which had precipitated the rumor.

Green Light Given For Construction

Horse racing may get under way at Sandown Park in September but the proposed Elk Lake track will not likely hold its first meet before summer of 1956, it was learned today.

Rezoning of Sandown Park near Sidney to allow racing, was approved Friday night following a public hearing by the board of appeal for the North Saanich regulated area.

The board said no objections had been received from surrounding property holders and recommended to the minister of municipal affairs that rezoning be permitted.

Contracts will be let as soon as final word is received from the minister, according to William Randall, president of Colwood Park Ltd., owner of Sandown Park.

Meanwhile, city solicitor Arthur Patton revealed that city officials approved an $800-a-year rental for 80 acres of city-owned land near Elk Lake. Island Turf Company will start construction of a $500,000 development there as "soon as possible."

Delay Advised in Elk Lake Track Plans

Mr. Patton said installation of a sewage and drainage system which will protect the Elk Lake watershed represents "a tremendous amount of work" and he advised the promoters to wait until next year before starting racing.

Island Turf Company still might face opposition in Saanich. Saanich council has objected in principle to the race-track firm and passed a by-law aimed at stopping any track construction without council approval first being obtained. Although Victoria owns the Elk Lake watershed area, it lies within the Saanich boundaries.

The racing company has never made any overtures to Saanich. Officials who came here from Vancouver Friday did not meet with Reeve Joseph Casey. Reeve Casey blames the city for lack of courtesy in this regard. "The city, out of courtesy, ought to have come to us and let us know what they are doing with property in our municipality," he said today.

City council approved a 30-year lease to the Island Turf Company. The deal worked out Friday makes the company responsible for drainage, roads, and beautification as well as the $800 annual rental.

$100,000 To Be Spent at Sandown Oval

The Sandown development calls for $100,000 expenditure to renovate the track and provide stables for 250 horses as well as 1,500-seat grandstand.

Mr. Randall said it was doubtful that work would be completed in time for a spring meet but said a meet would be held in September.

At the public hearing, North Saanich residents were enthusiastic about horse racing but cool to proposals for a class A fair on the same site. They favored retention of the present 87-year-old North and South Saanich agricultural fair.

Nich High School drew a crowd of 200. Sidney municipal clerk thought the track probably would be assessed at $60,000 and meant big tax revenues. It would also bring Vancouver and Sidney money to the municipality, he thought.

Sidney Immigration Officer, H. Tobin said he thought the project would improve the employment situation.

Strong opposition to the track was registered by North Saanich High School PTA Member C. C. Inkster-deploied the effect the track might have on children. He was supported by High School principal, D. E. Breckenridge.

Lumber Swing Shift Plan To Be Opposed

Recommendation that swing shifts be implemented in B.C.'s lumber industry is liable to run into considerable opposition at District 1 convention of International Woodworkers of America in Vancouver next week, some local members feel.

The resolution will be put forward by Victoria Local 1-118, IWA, which feels swing shifts are fair practice in most industries, and that all employees should have equal conditions of work.

One local member said this morning the resolution will lack support because many lumber workers do not wish to interfere with the seniority system in lumber operations, which is supposed to regulate night or day shift work to a large extent.

He said management too would probably be chary of the plan because of the disorganization it would cause if effected.

MERGER TALK

Also to come under discussion at the convention is the merger of the CIO, with which the IWA is affiliated, and AFL announced Wednesday.

A. F. Hartung, IWA international president, is slated to address the expected 100 delegates representing 32,000 members.

Biennial elections in district 1 are also to take place, along with preparation of resolutions on 1953 contract demands.

Victoria local will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. in CCL labor hall to elect six delegates to district 1 wages and contract convention, tentatively set for March 5 and 6.

BETWEEN TIMES

By JUDY BOOTS STREAK

The Old Man has gone to Vancouver which leaves me in full charge of this space for today at least, so now I can get a few things off my chest or should I say brisket, me being a female-type dog as you have no doubt heard before.

Of course, why the Old Man should go to Vancouver is a mystery to one and also to all. In fact why one should go to Vancouver is impossible to understand.

Mind you, I have never been to Vancouver, but what has Vancouver got Victoria hasn't got? Why Vancouver hasn't even got Bill Ezinkil any more.

And at this time of the year, Victoria has everything. Think of the scenery! Victoria's own Olympic Mountains to the south... Victoria's own Mount Baker to the... (Excuse me, but the dog next door has just told me the Olympic Mountains and Mount Baker are in the State of Washington. Which proves how ignorant some dogs can be. I know, and YOU know the Olympic Mountains and Mount Baker are not in the State of Washington, they are in the Victoria tourist promotion folder.)

So, as I was saying, why should anyone leave Victoria for even a day or two, especially with such wonderful invigorating air and scenery and grapefruit rinds floating in the harbor and all like that?

But mainly what I wanted to get off my chest, or brisket, is whatever in the world has happened to Holland Point?

I am told on good authority about half of the money which is to be spent on Holland Point has been spent.

And do you know what has happened so far?

The Old Man has told me I can't play on Holland Point any longer because my feet get too muddy.

Of course, the Old Man is always telling me I can't do something and I don't very often pay attention, but this time he is right—my feet DO get too muddy.

So.

What I would like to know is, is it really necessary to spend all that money just so doggies like me can get muddy feet?

Doggies like me can get muddy feet without anybody spending any money at all.

We doggies are very grateful to the Capital City grant people for making it easier to get our feet muddy. But we aren't selfish, we doggies aren't, and we think maybe the money could have been spent on something for people.

For instance, a new coat of paint for the garbage scow.

Excuse me, I have to hurry away. I have a date to see the plans for Clover Point.

GRANDSON of the founder of the Salvation Army, General William Booth, Commissioner Wycliffe Booth and Mrs. Booth are in Victoria to address a meeting at Salvation Army Citadel tonight at 8. They were appointed heads of the army in Canada and Bermuda in January.

Court was told that while the parents recently were in a beer parlor, the youngster returned from school and could not gain entrance to his home. He was forced to wait outside until early hours of the morning when the parents returned.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas fined each $25 and $4 costs or five days.

Birley & Simpson, architects, are calling for tenders this week-end for conversion of the upper floors at 908 Government Street into apartments for V. Tashdjian. Bids will close Feb. 28.

Building has been started by contractors McKinty & Sons, preliminary to erection of a $16,000 service station for Standard Oil Co., at Shelbourne and Hillside.

Lowest tender submitted for erection of first unit of Ambrose K. O'Shea's quartet of apartment blocks at Humboldt and Fairfield was figured by Sutton & Sons at $60,800.

Ten other contractors put in bids running up to $74,700. The successful contractor, with slight price reductions, may be in line to build three proposed additional units.

Contract will be awarded on return of Mr. O'Shea from a holiday in the south. Wade, Stockhill & Armour, are the architects.

DROODLES

There are probably more legends about Abe Lincoln than any other great man in our history. Some say he was homesly, but I disagree. Just look at a picture of Lincoln (if you have a $5 bill handy) and you'll see that if he shaved and got a square haircut he'd be a Gary Cooper type. If he were alive today he'd probably be starring as a sheriff in westerns and play the lead in "The Life of Raymond Massey." Of course as a movie star he wouldn't have his picture on money but he'd probably get his hands on more than he did as president. But just think—if Lincoln hadn't been born when he was New Yorkers might get to Jersey by going through the Jefferson Davis Tunnel.

BEFORE PENNY

The Church Page

By LANCE H. WHITTAKER

Anyone who has heard British Columbia's Doukhobors sing will not miss the opportunity to attend the concert of the Orthodox choir at Oak Bay High School on Monday, Feb. 21.

Those who have not had the privilege will do well to reserve the date now and secure tickets.

The concert tour, sponsored by the Community Programs branch of the Department of Education, is certain to do much to widen and deepen appreciation of the Doukhobor faith and culture.

The term Doukhobor is often loosely and incorrectly used by those who do not know the history of the group. It is often used as speaking of a people, whereas the term correctly means a group of Russian people who are followers of a particular belief. It was given to a community of non-conformist peasants by the Russian Orthodox clergy and it signified "spirit-fighters" or "spirit-wrestlers." The priesthood intended it as a term of derision conveying the idea that they fought against the Spirit of God. The Doukhobors turned it to mean that they fight for and with the Spirit.

Today the Orthodox Doukhobors are known as the Union of Spiritual Communities of Christ, but all members of the Doukhobor faith are of Russian origin and use the Russian language in their services and in their communities.

Three Main Doukhobor Divisions

In this province there are really three divisions: The Independents who are not associated with the organized members of the sect; the Orthodox, who live largely on government lands and belong to the Union of Spiritual Communities of Christ; and the Reformed Doukhobors, more commonly called the "Sons of Freedom."

It is from the Orthodox group that this choir has been drawn. Its members work in various occupations and comply with the laws of the land. They carry on their worship in the old style and in meeting houses where the men sit on one side and the women on the other. At their services they greet each other fraternally, thereby acknowledging every man as a bearer of the Divine Spirit. It is their belief that God is within each and every person, and a church is where two or three are gathered together.

All Singing Is 'A Capella'

The music of the Doukhobors is purely vocal, their singing in Russian "a capella" style and highly developed. They divide the themes of their songs into three categories: psalms, hymns and folksongs. The main theme of the psalms, most of them taken from the Bible, is God and His worship. The hymns on the other hand are almost all modern and written by contemporaries many of whom are Doukhobors. Their themes may be religious but may also deal with the lives of the Doukhobor leaders or with the sufferings of the sect. The folksongs are largely derivations of traditional Russian folksongs but not always with the familiar light-heartedness.

Thematically, the music is simple and sincere with a true deep-rooted quality without superficial assimilations. The impure intervals produce a rich scale unusual to our ears and the tonality is also of an uncertain character. Listeners will find novelty in the custom of commencing a song with a single voice, later joined by others to establish a kind of counterpoint while each voice retains its independence.

This Doukhobor choir, made up of the members of the senior and youth choirs, one of several groups organized in the interior, is perhaps the brightest exponent of the rich and varied Doukhobor vocal music. The senior choir has sung as a trained group for several years and was awarded top marks in the 14th Kootenay Musical Festival at Trail in May, 1947, and a first-place certificate in the B.C. Musical Festival in March, 1950, by adjudicator Russell Green, British musician and permanent conductor of the Birmingham Festival Choral Society.

St. Luke's Wipes Out Entire Church Debt

The church debt was wiped out during the past year, Canon F. Pike told St. Luke's parishioners at the annual meeting held recently.

He reminded them, however, that despite the highly successful year a lot still remained to be done in the ever-growing parish.

Elected to the church committee were Capt. D. Prentice, I. T. Kinnell, F. Geffard, A. G. Slocomb, R. Porter, R. Haywood, C. Howland, V. Hooper, O. Blandy, R. Bray, J. Hogg, A. R. McCoubrey, R. Bates, S. Brookes and H. E. Lukey.

Canon Munn in Farewell Service at Evensong

Sexagesima brings a notable event to St. Barnabas' Church—the farewell of Canon E. G. Munn to the growing congregation he has served for a decade. A few hours later, on Monday morning, he will leave for Lytton, B.C., at the confluence of the Fraser and Thompson rivers, where in a large mission field he will find his future ministry. He will be celebrant at the early services tomorrow and will be preacher at the 11 o'clock service. He will deliver his farewell sermon at Evensong.

This will end a rectorship which began 10 years ago when the worshippers assembled in the old wooden St. Barnabas on Cook Street at Caledonia.

The handsome, new and more durable St. Barnabas edifice at Belmont and Begbie will henceforth remind Anglicans of Greater Victoria and the whole Diocese of British Columbia of Canon Munn's faith and the leadership which took the parishioners of St. Barnabas to their new home.

Mrs. Munn will accompany the canon and their young son to Lytton, which is the Diocese of Cariboo.

Early spring flowers always bring happy memories to Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Orchard, 1023 Davie Street, for it was daffodils that decorated First Baptist Church in this city when they exchanged wedding vows on Valentine's Day, 1925. Rev. W. P. Freeman officiated. Mr. Orchard was then district forester at Cranbrook, B.C. Today, he is Deputy Minister of Forests and chief forester for British Columbia. Valentine Colors, Red and White At Cove-Balcom Wedding Ceremony

Pale parchment in French satin and lace fashioning her princess style gown and chapel veil, and deep ruby red roses in her bouquet, set a Valentine theme for the St. Valentine's weekend wedding of Marilyn Rosemary (Lynne) Balcom, to Derek, Sidney Cove 1566 Hampshire Road.

Candlelight and fragrant cream stocks adorned St. John's Anglican Church, where Canon George Biddle performed the nuptial ceremony on Friday night for the daughter of A. S. Balcom, Nanaimo, B.C., and Mrs. Marjorie Balcom, 954 Maddison Street, Victoria, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Cove, London, Eng.

Wedding music was played by Frederick Chubb and Harold C. Bray gave his niece in marriage.

Ruby red velvet was worn by bridesmaid Miss Maureen C. Bray, cousin of the bride. The gown was made on princess lines and she wore a matching bandeau in her hair and carried cream roses. Donald N. Ross was best man, and ushers were Graeme S. Balcom and Victor Gadsby.

Royal Victoria Yacht Club was scene of a reception where Mrs. Balcom, wearing apricot lace with blue accessories and blue carnation corsage, and Mrs. William Moore, sister of the groom, in pale pink with gardenia corsage, assisted in receiving guests.

Color theme of the bridal entourage was repeated in the three-tier cake decorated in cream and flanked with cream-colored candles and ruby red roses in crystal containers. Toast to the bride was proposed by Robert L. Shaw.

Departing for a honeymoon at an undisclosed destination, Mrs. Cove donned a dusty pink coat dress and matching topcoat and hat, with set of marten fur and brown accessories. Her corsage was a gardenia. The young couple will make their future home at 200 Douglas Street.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald C. Bray, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. G. Ross, Mr. Donald Laidlaw, Miss Valerie Laidlaw and Mr. and Mrs. Eric West, all of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hodgson of Courtenay.

Great-Grandfather's Prayer Book Held By Lovely Bride During Marriage

A white prayer book brought from Ireland by the great-grandfather of the bride, was carried by Marilyn Brown Pipes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pipes, 2439 Lincoln Road, for her marriage Friday night to Griffin Christie Layne, son of Mrs. E. Layne, 1312 Carnsew Street, and the late Mr. Layne.

Tulips and daffodils decorated Metropolitan United Church, where the ceremony was performed by Dr. F. E. H. James. Wedding music was played by Mrs. R. Lohead.

Escorted into the church by her father, the bride was charming in a toast-colored nylon gown, styled with fitted jacket, with which she wore eggshell accessories. A tiger orchid topped her prayer book.

Mrs. M. Karst was the sole attendant, wearing gull grey French crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias and pink roses. R. Dougan was the groom's best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lawrie, 971 Maddison Street. A handmade lace cloth covered the table, on which the three-tier wedding cake was set. White candles in silver candelabra glowed softly on either side. Proposing a toast to the bridal pair was H. Lawrie.

Assisting in receiving guests were Mrs. Pipes, wearing a frock of purple lace with white accessories and white hyacinth corsage, and Mrs. Layne in a grey suit with pink rose corsage and pink accessories.

A corsage of tiger orchids adorned the bride's traveling ensemble as the happy couple departed to spend a honeymoon on the mainland. Upon return they will make their home at 1312 Carnsew Street.

A Day for Memories!

Those who mark St. Valentine's birthday as a wedding anniversary will always find happy remembrances in February 14. . . . For newlyweds this first Valentine's Day remains a highlight in their memories . . . for the longer-marrieds, the day offers an opportunity to renew—very often in the language of flowers—the pledges of their troth . . . and for the lads and lasses who will say "I Do" next Monday this Valentine's Day of 1955 is sparkling with the star-dust of romance.

Miss Yvonne Pedneault and Mr. Harold H. Bird have chose Monday, Feb. 14, for the exchange of their marriage vows. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pedneault, 2839 Austin Avenue, and her fiancé a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bird, Birch Hill, Sask. (Photo by Irving Strickland.)

Morning Wedding In Mill Bay Church

Another week-end wedding in which the St. Valentine colors of red and white were used in a rich and delightful effect was celebrated this morning at 11 at the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Mill Bay.

Principals were Audrey Georgina, daughter of Air Commodore and Mrs. E. J. D. Townesend, of London, England, and John Ogilvie Leask, younger son of Mrs. F. A. O. Leask, Cobble Hill, and the late Wing Cmdr. Leask. Rev. J. Cyr performed the ceremony before an altar adorned with red and white tulips. Wedding music was played by Hugh Brackenbury, a friend of the family.

Given in marriage by her brother, John, who had come from England especially for the occasion, the bride was a lovely picture in her gown of white corded silk, modeled on classic lines, with the full skirt worn over a crinoline and sweeping into a slight train.

Long lily point sleeves and a lily petal collar on the high-necked bodice were traditional portrait touches. A crown of real white hyacinth petals held the pure silk fingertip veil sent from England by her parents, and a white prayer book, also sent by her parents, and topped with a spray of lily of the valley completed her all-white ensemble.

Miss Janet Leask, sister of the groom, was the only attendant. Cardinal red fine corduroy fashioned her gown which was worn over a crinoline. The boat neckline featured a roll collar edged with tiny gold beads. Short white French kid gloves emphasized the three-quarter sleeves and she carried a spray of red roses and white hyacinths.

Michael Gibson, cousin of the groom, was best man and Leonard Lauk and Charles Palet were ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's mother, Quarry Point, where a cake made by Miss Sarah Carr held the place of honor on the bridal table. Red candles in silver holders continued the Valentine theme. Mrs. Leask assisted in receiving guests, wearing a navy blue brocade ensemble, navy hat trimmed with tiny white flowers, navy accessories and a white gardenia corsage. Toast to the newlywed couple was proposed by Capt. O. J. Williams.

Last-Minute Suggestions
For Queen of Your Heart

By PENNY SAVER

You men in the house! You'd better read this for time's getting short... Monday is St. Valentine's Day, in case you're interested. For your Queen of Hearts, I'd suggest you start thinking of "just the right thing," and I might be able to help. For $3, you can buy a red, shiny heart-shaped vase filled either with spring flowers or a lovely plant. There is a gold arrow that looks as if it goes right through the vase which stands five or six inches high.

Here's another thought... for milady's dressing table, I saw English bone china powder and knick-knack boxes that are as dainty as can be. They come in delicate shades of pink, yellow and green, and on the top are beautifully moulded flowers, like the Coalport ones, to form the handles.

The price range is from $1.25 to $3.75. You can make up a set of different shaped pieces, but the same color and idea, and it won't be very expensive either.

Another dressing table accessory is the perfume atomizer that every girl loves, but seldom buys for herself. I saw some on sale today, too. Regularly priced at $2.49, these cost only 99 cents. They're heavy glass, with a long-handled stopper. They really are very attractive, and at such a price!

Well, gentlemen, if you are still at a loss for a suitable gift, I'm afraid you (or your girl) are very hard to please.

Now, for the women in the house, I've discovered the perfect thing to dress up St. Valentine's Day dinner. Heart-shaped cake tins are selling at two for $1.25. Think of the adorable layer cake you could decorate for the special dinner. They're standard-sized aluminum tins, the shiny, shiny kind that will make your cakes all that you want them to be.

Are you having a few of the girls from the bridge club in? Or perhaps you have a special occasion, a wedding or special tea, coming up.

These little sugar cubes that I found are very, very frivolous, but who cares! They're called "High Tea" sugar cubes, and on each of the cubes in this 40-cube package is a little flower made of icing. It's very novel, and something that your guests will remember long after the party is over. A package costs 65 cents.

I know it's a little high, but you pay for being original. Remember, folks, just call 23131 and ask for me, and I'll tell you where to buy these things mentioned in my little corner. I'm always glad to hear from you, so don't hesitate.

In Step With Style

By NONA DAMASKE

I always receive a thrill when I see lovely things which are made really close to home.

The Original Blouse Company is the only blouse concern in British Columbia. Their factory is in Vancouver and they use our B.C. Totem Pole as an emblem. They began with four men, seven years ago, and now employ 65 people.

I have been invited to go on a tour of the factory next time I visit Vancouver and see a blouse made from start to finish. If you are interested in a story about a visit to a busy garment factory, let me know and I will take notes when I make my tour.

White is still the biggest selling shade, followed by delicate pastels of pink, blue, and yellow. I've seen Dacron that had been dyed a cool mint green and soft orchid-new shades.

Significant in the Original line this season are the high style Sanforized cottons in every shade from pastels to vibrant reds. Collars are large, and adapted for the plunging neckline, or to be worn dramatically high. Sleeves are three-quarter length, push-up or short. One style, "Capri," has adopted an almost long, lean look with its vertical tucks from shoulder to waistline in the front, tailored yoke back and neat wing collar.

Several long-sleeve numbers have been designed with the popular jumper vogue in mind. The colors are appealing, the styles interesting, but to me the most important feature is that every blouse by Original is entirely washable and simple to iron. Most of us keep quite busy these days and it is a wonderful help to be able to have a few fresh pretty blouses on hand without too much effort on our part. Dacron and orlon have created a whole new field of blouses for the busy career woman and the equally busy mother.

Colleen is saying: "I will be right over for a cup of tea." She looks all ready too in her Alurael button-front blouse. There are 25 fine pin tucks on each side of the buttons and the dainty embroidered Peter Pan collar may also be worn open.

Another Dacron crepe by Original Blouse. This time Colleen wears a dressy blouse with three-quarter-length sleeves and a fly front. The collar, cuffs, and front are embroidered and scalloped for the ever-present feminine look of this spring.

New Guild Formed
The Guild of St. Saviour's Church was formed recently in the parish hall. Mrs. D. Kendall was named president; Mrs. A. Wilson, secretary; Mrs. V. Shandley, treasurer; Mrs. V. Petch, choir committee, and Mrs. E. Strungnell, Sunday school committee. First project will be a delicatessen sale next Saturday at 2 p.m. in the parish hall, corner of Catherine and Henry Streets.

guarding precious health

Don't let frequent coughs and colds lower the vitality and threaten the critical growing years of your child. Wampole's Extract of Cod Liver builds sturdy health, gives valuable Vitamin "D" protection. Children like its pleasing flavor too. It contains no oil.

Colleen Sardone and Doris Blanche are ready for spring in their fresh white blouses created by the Original House Company. Colleen's blouse is Dacron in a mock turtleneck. The lace yoke and fine pin-tucked front make this a wonderful suit accessory. Doris' blouse is Dacron crepe and is also designed as the perfect companion to your spring suit.

Cambrey-Schofield Wedding
Held in St. John's Church

Bouquets of white carnations and baskets of pink and cream stocks decorated St. John's Church Friday evening for the wedding ceremony that united Evelyn Elsie Schofield and Donald Frank Cambrey. Canon George Biddle officiated, while F. J. Chubb played traditional organ music.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Schofield, 850 Shamrock Street, was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dennis King. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cambrey, 3333 Shelbourne Street.

A ballerina length gown of white lace with a front panel of acordion pleats was chosen by the bride for her wedding day. A matching lace jacket buttoning to the waist with tiny lace-covered buttons topped her gown. The finger-tip veil of white net was edged with delicate lace. Tallman rosebuds and carnations were in the bridal bouquet.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Audrey King, was matron of honor. She chose a mauve ballerina-length net gown fashioned with lace peplum and matching lace jacket, and she carried yellow tulips and carnations. Bridesmaid, Miss Violet Maldaner, was gown in yellow net with matching lace jacket, and carried mauve tulips and carnations.

The chapter is sponsoring a medical loan cupboard for Sidney and district. It presented a scholarship to Miss Ruth Shiner, now in the nursing profession. Books were presented to each of the seven schools in the district.

Aid was given the Solarium Shower of Dimes and to an aged pensioner in England. Sidney Queen contest was sponsored by the chapter.

Treasurer's report showed receipts as $830.92 and disbursements, $684.58. Other reports were given by Mrs. G. F. Gilbert, Mrs. J. H. Cummings, Mrs. R. J. McLellan, Mrs. G. Campbell, Mrs. E. J. Gray, Mrs. G. M. Ward, Mrs. F. Reid, Mrs. J. V. Bell, Mrs. H. J. Currie and Mrs. J. S. Gorton.

A vote of thanks was given the outgoing executive, and on behalf of members, Mrs. A. W. Murphy presented Mrs. Gilbert, retiring regent, with an inscribed compact.

Officers for 1955 are Mrs. A. W. Murphy, regent; Mrs. Gray, first vice-regent; Mrs. Currie, second; Mrs. Cummings, secretary; Mrs. McLellan, treasurer; Mrs. H. Stacey, standard bearer; Mrs. Reid, services at home and abroad; Mrs. P. Montgomery, Echoes; Mrs. Gorton, educational secretary Mrs. Bell, hospitality; Miss Joan Chamberlain, gifts, and Mrs. G. Campbell, publicity.

Nominations committee was Mrs. Gorton, Mrs. E. Lassfolk and Mrs. H. Bennett.

Best man was Karl Maldaner, and the ushers J. Cambrey, Jr., brother of the groom and G. Brown.

A reception was held at Loughheed's Banquet Hall, where the bridal table was decorated with mauve tulips and daffodils, and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake. The bridal couple received their guests, assisted by Mrs. Elsie Schofield, wearing a navy gown with matching accessories, and a corsage of pink feathered carnations, and Mrs. J. Cambrey in a wine dress with black accessories and yellow feathered carnation corsage.

Piano music played by Cecil Heston was enjoyed by the guests. Traditional toast was proposed by Wilf Sadler.

For a honeymoon trip to Island, the bride chose a gray tailored suit with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cambrey will live at 1109 Finlayson Avenue.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. A. Allegretto, and Mr. W. Pring of Vancouver.

European Royalty Present
When Princess Pia Married

CASCAIS, Portugal (UP)—Princess Maria Pia of Italy and Prince Alexander of Yugoslavia were married today in a tiny church of this Portuguese fishing village in a blending of 20th century simplicity and 18th century pomp.

The blue bloods of Europe—more than 100 of them—attended for the royal wedding of the year in the 200-year-old church that holds only 600 persons. The other 3,500 guests stood outside, mingling with the fishing folk of Cascais.

The couple exchanged vows before parish priest Father Antonio Pereira de Almeida. The princess, 20, is a Catholic, and the prince, 30, a member of the Greek orthodox church, so the altar was covered with a velvet cloth to follow the wishes of his church.

POPE APPROVES
Mass was not celebrated, but the Italian royal chaplain, Father Naldi, held communion earlier and heard Maria Pia's confession. The marriage had been approved by Pope Pius XII through a special liturgical blessing.

Maria Pia was clad in brilliant white satin and a flowing tulle veil falling from a diamond diadem which was a present of her parents. The dress, containing 2 1/2 yards of satin, was designed by the Italian Fontana sisters.

The long-sleeved dress was reminiscent of Italian renaissance style but severely simple in accordance with the princess' own wishes. With it she wore high pumps of identical white satin decorated with brilliant buckles. She carried orange blossoms.

The romance between Maria Pia, eldest child of Umberto, and Alexander, a six-foot former airline pilot, began last summer on the royal Mediterranean cruise of the yacht Medea when they were among the many titled guests of the king and queen of Greece.

CAMELIAS IN CHURCH
They planned a honeymoon trip to Madeira before the prince returns to Paris and his job with a navigation company.

The princess chose the church because it was where she was shipped as a child. It was decorated with 10,000 camellias arranged in arches over the roof. Outside brilliant canopies were erected to protect the waiting crowds in the event of rain.

Forty girls in traditional Italian dress lined the route to the church.

The Duke of Genoa and the Belgian ambassador, Baron Ruzette, appeared as witnesses for the bride. Greek Minister Vas-ili Lappas and Yugoslav Prince Tomislav were witnesses for the bridegroom.

The guests included leaders of Italy's popular Monarchist party which some day hopes to restore the Italian throne.

Former King Umberto and his ex-Queen Marie Jose live in Portugal now, and during toasts at a formal reception for the royal guests the exiled monarch spoke of Portugal's kindness. But he added, "My heart belongs to Italy."

Others here for the "simple family style wedding" included the bridegroom's parents, Prince Paul of Yugoslavia and Princess Olga of Greece.

Other royalty present included Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne; the Duke of Braganza, pretender to the Portuguese throne; the Count of Paris, pretender to the French throne; young ex-King Boris of Bulgaria; Archduke Franz Joseph of Austria; and the Duchess of Kent with her daughter, Alexandra, and her son, the Duke of Kent.

Bridal Gown of Traditional Satin At Today's Wedding in St. John's

A floor-length gown of white satin and lace was chosen by Edith Olwen Thora Rodstrom for her wedding this afternoon in St. John's Anglican Church.

The gown was styled with a lace-covered bodice featuring lace lily-pointed sleeves and a bouffant skirt of alternate tiers of tulle and lace. The illusion net finger-tip veil was held by a rhinestone edged Juliet cap. Only jewelry was a strand of pearls and the bride carried a bouquet of white hyacinths and red roses. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Cedric Kearley.

Canon George Biddle read the wedding ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Peter Rodstrom, 216 Menzies Street, Victoria, and Mr. Rodstrom, Yellow Knife, N.W.T., and Lewis Ernest Knott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Knott, 1290 Topaz Avenue, Victoria.

Pussywillows and daffodils and ferns decorated the church for the occasion.

Trio of bridesmaids, Miss Daisy Chandler, Miss Sylvia Knott and Miss Helene Knott, sisters of the groom, wore ballerina-length gowns of chrome-spun taffeta in shades of blue, pink and green respectively and carried complimentary flowers. The bride's niece, four-year-old Constance Anne Rodstrom, was a dainty flower girl in a full-length pink taffeta dress. She carried a basket of spring flowers.

Donald Allen was best man and the ushers, Gerald Stewart and Jack Robertson.

A reception was held at Olde England Inn where a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table. Traditional toast was proposed by Mr. Kearley.

Mrs. Rodstrom, in a grey ensemble with pink accessories and pink carnations corsage and Mrs. Knott in a powder blue gown with navy accessories and yellow carnation corsage, assisted in receiving guests.

The honeymoon will be spent motoring in the States of Washington and Oregon. Mrs. Knott traveled in a ruby-colored cashmere suit with matching hat, white accessories, the ensemble completed with a white gardenia corsage.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included J. B. Adams, Miss Lorraine Stewart, Mr. J. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. W. Tait, all of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Rodstrom of Qualicum Beach.

Works Upped $100 Million To Help Jobs
OTTAWA (BUP)—The federal government plans to boost public works spending by $100,000,000 this year.

Works Minister Robert Winters said Friday night that public works by the federal government would amount to about 25 per cent of all new public construction and about 10 per cent of all construction in Canada this year.

"The construction industry, which is often regarded as a barometer of the economic well-being of a country, can look forward to a high level of activity in Canada throughout 1955," Winters said.

"We endeavor to plan and implement our purchasing power as well as our construction so that seasonal unemployment will be alleviated to the greatest possible extent."

Parents Sue Hospital For Cremating Baby
CHICAGO (AP)—A mother and father sued Edgewater hospital Friday for $25,000 damages for allegedly cremating their baby's body without permission.

As a result, "the blessing of the remains by the Catholic church" was denied Edward Wojcik, 30, and his wife, Wanda, 28, related. The Roman Catholic Church views cremation as a pagan rite.

Sickness Insurance Foreseen for All

Paul Martin Sees Foundation Laid By Existing Federal Health Grants

CARLETON PLACE, Ont. (BUP)—The federal government's program of national health grants is a forerunner of the eventual establishment of national health insurance, Health Minister Paul Martin said today.

Martin said the grants, to provincial and local health services, would lead to the "eventual establishment of a nation-wide system of national health insurance."

He said the federal government could not enter into agreements to provide health services to all Canadians if facilities and personnel were not available for such a plan.

Martin spoke at the opening of the Carleton Place and District Memorial Hospital.

"The growing acceptance by governments at every level of a share of responsibility for the health and well-being of their people," he said, was "of far-reaching consequence to hospitals and to all community services."

Canada must find means of sharing equitably the high cost of sickness, he said.

AFL Leader Asks Drive to Organize U.S. Farm Workers
WASHINGTON (UP)—The president of the AFL agricultural workers union called for an all-out drive today to organize full-time farm workers into one of the nation's biggest unions.

President H. L. Mitchell said he hoped the merger of the AFL and the CIO would spark the drive to organize workers on large industrial-type farms.

He said he believed that about two-thirds of the estimated 1,500,000 full-time farm workers could be organized.

Harewood Votes $210,000 for Improvements
NANAIMO—Harewood residents voted Thursday night in favor of a $150,000 waterworks project and a $60,000 fire protection system put forward by trustees of Harewood Improvement District.

Water rates will be held to $4 per month this year, according to trustees' plans. They warned that sprinkling regulations will be necessary during the coming summer in spite of the improvements planned.

An out-and-out adventure yarn, one that without the acting abilities of such sterling performers as Miss Grace Kelly, Stewart Granger and Paul Douglas would have been nothing more than a Grande B action, it moves with speed and decision, with humor, pathos and enough suspense to keep any but the most sophisticated on the edge of their seats.

The plot in brief: Rian Mitchell (Granger) and his partner Vic Leonard (Douglas) attempt to operate the deserted Carrere mine in search of Columbia's fabulous emeralds, the green fire. In their search they meet Catherine Knowland (Miss Kelly) and her brother Donald (John Ericson) who run a coffee plantation. In due course Rian and Catherine fall in love in spite of the fact they have different goals in life. Meanwhile the adventurers are plagued by bandits, rock slides, internal strife and superstitious natives.

FILMED IN WIDE-SCREEN
CinemaScope the picture's scenery is spectacular, some of the "depth" glimpses causing one to hold his breath. On the other hand the show does little to further Miss Kelly's acting range, as superb as she is. It simply doesn't demand more than she gave.

And, in conclusion, a pat on the back for supporting players Robert Tafur, who played the priest, Murvy Vye as El Muro, the bandit chief, and Charlita, the sultry native girl who loved to play with Rian. And, of course, plaudits for Director Andrew ("King Solomon's Mines") Marton who is an old hand at keeping adventure yarns adventurous.

New Mystery 'Vitamin P' Found in Oranges, Lemons
BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—A mystery "vitamin" which may become a new wonder drug was described in a report today to a scientific conference.

It promises benefits in treating some heart conditions, rheumatic fever and polio, and in preventing miscarriages. It is hesperidin, also called vitamin P, although scientists aren't certain it is a true vitamin.

Vitamin P or hesperidin is found in the peel and pulp of lemons and oranges and certain other foods. You don't get much of it by drinking fruit juices.

STRENGTHENS BLOOD VESSELS
When combined with vitamin C, hesperidin strengthens the walls of tiny blood vessels or capillaries. Various illnesses seem to weaken these blood vessels, permitting the blood fluids to leak out, and that perhaps fa-

Budget-Priced Turkey Here
SASKATOON (CP)—The housewife's demand for a turkey that fills the eating and budget requirements of the average household may soon be met by the University of Saskatchewan's poultry department.

A well-fleshed, moderate-sized turkey has been developed through 10 years of intensive inbreeding from two standard bronze turkeys. Prof. W. J. Rae says original female and male used in the breeding of the new strain possessed better-than-average meat qualities for the standard bronze type.

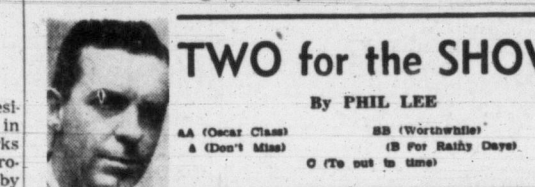

From these birds have been developed turkeys showing exceptional uniformity in type and weight. Females weigh from 12 to 14 pounds and toms, 18 to 22 pounds.

"If further tests are successful, the department plans to have stock available to breeders in 1955."

At Royal Theatre This Month

Keenly anticipated by music lovers, the De Paour Infantry Chorus will pay its third visit to Victoria on Feb. 21, when a fine program will be presented at the Royal Theatre. Directed by brilliantly gifted Leonard De Paour, the musicianship, tone and blend of this choir is unexcelled on the North American concert. Almost all members are of solo calibre, many have musical degrees.

(A) "GREEN FIRE" (Capitol) — Although this MGM film is without theatrical pretensions it is, nonetheless, an adventure of the first water, and one of the most exciting motion pictures to hit town this year.

An out-and-out adventure yarn, one that without the acting abilities of such sterling performers as Miss Grace Kelly, Stewart Granger and Paul Douglas would have been nothing more than a Grande B action, it moves with speed and decision, with humor, pathos and enough suspense to keep any but the most sophisticated on the edge of their seats.

Coast Ferries Starts Design On New Ship

Work has started on design of a new vessel for Coast Ferries Ltd., which when completed will be slated for the Gulf Islands run, managing director O. H. New said Friday.

He did not disclose the type of vessel planned or when actual construction will start.

Vancouver naval-architect Robert Allan has been retained to design the vessel.

Coast Ferries is one of the companies which will bid for the Gulf Islands ferry franchise when it opens the end of this year. Also expected to bid are Gulf Islands Ferries Ltd., which operates the Cy Peck, and the Black Ball Line.

Coast Ferries now runs the Lady Rose from Sidney to Steveston through the islands.

Equalization Of Award Money Sought

A move to equalize money awards for decorations won by Canadian veterans of the world wars has been initiated in Victoria by Veterans of France branch, Canadian Legion.

The group seeks, in addition, to have all such payments made by the Canadian government in Canadian currency and to have awards paid for the same decorations won in the First World War as in the Second World War.

Presently, the Imperial government pays awards for First World War decorations in sterling, and recipients find themselves at a financial disadvantage due to devaluation of the British pound.

A MYSTERY
"Why the Imperial government should be paying Canadian veterans is a mystery," said a Legion official.

Representation is being made by the Legion to the federal government in an effort to enlarge the scheme and put all payments on the same basis under administration by the war pensions commission.

According to the Legion, only men without rank at the time they won their decoration are eligible for annuity. Winners of Military Cross and Distinguished Flying Cross, which are officers' decorations, are eligible only for their decoration and a lump sum of cash at the time of the presentation.

Payment for Victoria Cross decoration is in a class by itself. Winners get $50 annuities plus 12½ cents a day.

STRAIGHT PAY
For the rest of the decorations, a straight 12½ cents a day is paid. They are:

Distinguished Conduct Medal, Conspicuous Gallantry Medal (naval and flying) and Distinguished Flying Medal.

In 1943 an order in council extended the awards group to include the Military Cross, Distinguished Service Medal and Military Medal, the three which are not covered by First World War payments.

Imperial government payments for most decorations are about six pence per day.

Church Page Unimaginative?
MONTREAL (CP)—Religious news became a subject of "front-page" discussion Friday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference.

Three clergymen of different faiths met the newspaper men in a panel talk on the handling of church news.

Rabbi Reuben Sionim of Toronto said churches fail newspapers by loading them down with verbiage instead of providing clear-cut reports.

Rev. Norman Rawson of Montreal said the church group is the biggest in any community, but service clubs and other organizations receive more newspaper space.

Canon G. Emmett Carter of Montreal warned newspapers to beware of popularizing evil in sensational news and of "scurrilous" attacks on the church.

Pulled Off Flesh, Burned With Wires Victim Tells Court
OTTAWA (CP)—Iwan Onifriwchuk, 73, testified Friday that Alex Keninski, 65, beat and tortured him last December in a quarrel over missing money.

Keninski's preliminary hearing on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm to Onifriwchuk, a tenant in his Ottawa rooming house, opened in magistrate's court Friday.

Onifriwchuk said Keninski burned him with hot wires, punched him, pulled the skin off the back of his hands with pliers and punctured his ears. He later said that the burns were inflicted with a hot stove lid lifter.

Under cross-examination by defense counsel Roydon Hughes, he said he was "very drunk" two days before the incident and fell several times.

The hearing was adjourned for two weeks.

Triple-Star Drama at Capitol

Paul Douglas, Grace Kelly and Stewart Granger, as they appear on the Capitol screen in M-G-M's new CinemaScope drama, "Green Fire," filmed in color largely on arresting and unusual locations in Colombia, South America. Granger and Douglas enact adventures who discover an emerald mine near a coffee plantation owned by Miss Kelly, a discovery which leads to momentous incidents.

Facing Up the Cherry Tree
We cannot tell a lie; there are 10 faces in all in the drawing at right, but nine of them were purposely hidden by the artist to test your wits and powers of observation. One face is quite obvious, of course, but how many others can you find? Time limit: Five minutes.

Slippery Trip in Hill Country
Nancy knows where there is a fine hill for skiing. She's on her way there now, but she plans to call first at her cousin's house. Starting at the bottom of this drawing, see how quickly you are able to trace her path with your pencil. Do not cross any black lines. Time yourself.

Shortage of Cash Stamped Government Into Kaiser Deal CCF Member Charges

CCF MLA Tony Gargrave charged Friday the Social Credit government was stampeded into the Kaiser deal by a need for "quick returns."

"I suspect the government's debt reduction policy, and the need for more money for education, caused it to panic, and start looking around for quick returns," said Gargrave, "so they turned to our water resources."

BATTLE ENGAGED

The Kaiser deal, which has become a verbal fist fight between the federal and provincial governments, will enable the U.S. Kaiser aluminum interests to construct a $300,000 water storage dam on Lower Arrow Lakes to generate power in the U.S.

Gargrave bluntly demanded that Premier Bennett and Lands Minister R. E. Sommers appear before the House of Commons standing committee on external affairs to defend the Kaiser deal.

"I think they must go. They have a strong moral obligation to defend this deal before the cool scrutiny of hydro-power experts," he said.

"The premier is always shouting 'on to Ottawa' and I would like to see him go this time," Mr. Gargrave stated.

MAJOR ISSUE

In recent months the Kaiser issue has become second only to the Quebec income tax controversy as the major federal-provincial row on the Canadian scene.

In Ottawa, Liberal MP's have termed it everything from a "pillaging of water resources" to "highway robbery, and the Social Credit federal representatives are almost alone in support of the B.C. government's stand.

Gargrave warned the Legislature that "we must dispel the comfortable feeling that we have excess water power."

He condemned the deteriorating relations between the B.C. government and the federal administration, and called for a halt to "petty, brickbat arguments."

"Don't circumvent the ideals of the founding fathers of Confederation," the MacKenzie MLA warned.

Premier Bennett has indicated he has no intention of appearing before the federal external affairs committee to defend his government's deal with the giant U.S. aluminum and chemical firm.

Gargrave quoted National Resources Minister Jean Lesage as calling the Kaiser deal "childish" because there was no guarantee B.C. would get its 20 per cent of the power from the Bonneville Power Authority.

Lands Minister Sommers, who has said any conditions not in the Kaiser contract will be contained in the final water license, retorted:

"They just don't understand water licenses."

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing replied: "Go back to Ottawa and tell them then!"

GAGLARDI 'DREAM' ROAD WOULD OPEN VALLEY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Works Minister Gagliardi predicted Friday night that motorists eventually will be able to drive from Vancouver to Prince George via the Pemberton Valley and Garibaldi Park.

Addressing a meeting of the Point Grey Social Credit Association here, Mr. Gagliardi said: "I predict that one day you'll be able to drive from Vancouver into the great Pemberton Valley and on to Prince George."

The so-called Pemberton Valley north of Squamish has previously been forecast as a "second Fraser Valley," capable of meeting the food needs of the lower mainland area.

23 Men Perish In Fire

Skidroad Hotel Burns in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire raced through a crowded skid road hotel for men on West Madison Street today and killed at least 23.

Firemen recovered 22 bodies and said another body had been sighted in the burned-out five-story building. The Barton Hotel contained 365 cubicle rooms, mostly partitioned cubby holes, for transients.

Skid Road is an area west of Chicago's Loop, where derelicts congregate.

Some of the other 245 residents escaped into zero temperatures without shoes or socks to protect them from icy streets. Others were carried down ladders by firemen.

HUMAN TORCH

C. W. Harvey, the hotel's night clerk, said the fire may have started from a human torch. Joe Armato, 70-year-old pensioner, started to scream in his cubicle on the second floor and ran out covered with flames.

Armato habitually used rubbing alcohol, hotel officials said, and might have been using the rubbing alcohol while smoking.

Hours after the fire was extinguished, firemen began probing a yet unsearched section of the wrecked structure. They expressed fear that more victims may be uncovered in the debris.

Only six of the dead were identified immediately. Some were victims of smoke inhalation and exposure. Others were burned almost beyond recognition.

200 FLEE

More than 200 residents of the Barton Hotel, a five-story brick building on West Madison Street, fled into sub-zero weather.

Firemen helped scores from ladders and fire escapes from the upper floors. The 365-room hotel occupied the top four floors and an employee said 245 rooms were occupied.

The extra-alarm fire was fought in a temperature of one below zero and with winds of nearly 20 miles an hour.

Wolves

Regain Lead In Football

LONDON (Reuters). — Charlton Athletic upset Sunderland 2-1 today, knocking the losers out of the English League first division soccer leadership. The defeat was Sunderland's first setback at home this season.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, who for the last few months have been waging a see-saw battle with Sunderland for league championship honors, took advantage of this slip to climb back to the top of the first division.

Last week, the Wanderers suffered their worst reverse in 21 years when routed 6-1 at Bolton, but they swept back to winning form today to beat Huddersfield 6-4.

The Wanderers now have 36 points—one more than Sunderland—and each team has 13 more games to play. (See results Page 3).

THE PAS. Man. (CP) — Wreckage of an American bomber which plunged into the snow-covered muskeg of northern Saskatchewan early today has been spotted by an RCAF search plane which reported there was no sign of the four-man crew.

An RCAF spokesman said the search for survivors is being continued by RCAF and civilian planes, sent to the region after the six-jet plane crashed in a training flight through the sub-Arctic.

The B-47 jet was accompanied by a similar plane on what RCAF officials described as a routine training flight. The planes were soaring through the cloudy twilight at 7:30 a.m. (CST) when the engines on one plane are believed to have failed and it fell into the lake-dotted wilderness, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

The captain of the second plane radioed the RCAF control tower at the training centre at Rivers, Man., that the bomber had crashed south of Big Sandy Lake and east of the Wapawekka hills.

BOUND FOR CALIFORNIA

The RCAF said the huge craft were returning to base at Riverside, Calif., presumably from the USAF base at Thule, Greenland, when the accident occurred. Western Canada airports are not designed to handle the long-range Superjets and officials said the second plane probably was forced to continue to its home base.

The crash scene is in rugged, lake-dotted bush country which has been in the grip of a severe cold spell for several days.

Week's Delay Won By Jo'burg Blacks

ANDY MacKENZIE STORY IN WEEKEND MAGAZINE

For the first time, the full story of Sqdn. Ldr. A. R. "Andy" MacKenzie, who was held captive by the Chinese Reds for two years, is told in his own words beginning today in The Times Weekend Magazine.

MacKenzie, 34, and the father of four children, won the DFC in service with the RCAF during the Second World War.

In vivid language he describes his two years of torment at the hands of his captors, half-starved, deprived of rest and mentally badgered until he "confessed" to actions he has since amply disproved.

RUSSIAN PLAN 'UNPRODUCTIVE'

10-Power Talks On Formosa Issue Rejected by West

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—The U.S. and Britain have agreed that a 10-nation conference proposed by Russia on the Formosa crisis would be unproductive and have turned it down.

The conclusion that the meeting would be unproductive was based primarily on the fact that Nationalist China would not be present.

Moscow radio disclosed that on Feb. 4, Russian foreign minister V. M. Molotov had proposed to British Ambassador Sir William Hayter that a 10-nation conference excluding Nationalist China be held to discuss the Formosan situation this month in either Shanghai or New Delhi.

A Washington dispatch disclosed a hitherto secret exchange of messages between Red China's Premier Chou En-lai and UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. The door was left slightly ajar for a conference but on terms the United States could not accept.

UN TROUBLES

Meanwhile, a renewal of Red Chinese threats to invade Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa bastion underscored the difficulties which will be encountered by the United Nations security council when it meets Monday to renew its discussion of the Formosan crisis.

It was not decided whether a formal resolution would be introduced but if one is it was expected to deplore Red China's refusal of the council's invitation and express the hope that steps toward a cease-fire would be taken.

This would be in line with developments in London where British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru were reported to have agreed to seek new contacts in Moscow aimed at reaching a Formosa truce.

EDEN SEES NEHRU

A United Press dispatch from Moscow disclosed that British Ambassador Hayter visited Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov on Wednesday, presumably to deliver Britain's reply to Molotov's proposal for a 10-power conference on Formosa.

In London, meanwhile, Eden conferred both with Nehru and with U.S. Ambassador Winthrop C. Aldrich on a formula for a cease-fire. Eden met first with Nehru and then with Aldrich.

Bid Rebuffed

Bid of Pierre Pflimlin to become France's 21st postwar premier was setback today when the powerful Gaullist party voted 81-32 against joining his government. De Gaulle's followers object to inclusion of Rene Mayer, advocate of a united Europe in Pflimlin's tentative cabinet. Observers believe Pflimlin's chances to succeed Mendes-France were shattered by the Gaullists' decision.

Test Law Case Looms On B.C. Machine Tax

VANCOUVER — The groundwork for a test case against the provincial government's assessment equalization law was laid today by a Vancouver lawyer who charged the new tax act is illegal.

Lawyer F. Kay Collins challenged the act's legality when he appeared before the court of revision on Vancouver's new property assessment Friday.

Collins made five points to support his charge, of the illegality of having a property owner assessed for his tenants' machinery.

PENALTY—NOT TAX

He alleged this violates the fundamental principles of taxation law, is contrary to the Canadian constitution and is outside the power of the provincial legislature. Collins also maintained that it bypasses the requirements of the city charter and that it represents "a penalty and not a tax" which, he said, can't be levied because no unlawful act has been committed.

Mr. Collins said it was possible a landlord's property could be put up for tax sale because a tenant was delinquent in paying taxes.

Collins is representing Orr's Stores Ltd. (owned by Ald. Bill Orr), which leases store premises and has become liable for taxes on the machinery of its tenants.

Collins said he was determined to fight the case through higher courts if necessary.

Violence Flares In Mass Removal

JOHANNESBURG—Forced removal of this South African city's 60,000 blacks, scheduled for today, has been postponed a week by government order after scattered violence in Sophiatown. The negro slum is to be levelled to make room for the expanding white community.

Blacks Friday called a general strike to block this first full-scale test of Prime Minister Strijdom's policy of "apartheid"—total segregation of whites and blacks.

EIGHT FACE LASH Armed police today arrested eight negroes who were fomenting strike action. They are liable, under South Africa law, to whippings.

Two thousand policemen, armed with machine-guns, are guarding Sophiatown. They were called out two days ago when 40 Negro families fled in the night, led by a white clergyman, in defiance of the government's move-or-else edict.

About 100 families bowed to the order and moved in government trucks to a new community, Meadowlands, 12 miles away. They were mostly squatters.

CAN'T BUY HOUSE Many of the other blacks own shacks in Sophiatown. They'll be paid for the property but cannot buy homes in the government-owned Meadowlands settlement.

Father Trevor Huddleston, a British-born priest who has spent years working among the negro inhabitants of Sophiatown, warned today that it was a mistake to think that a lack of major violence indicated the families were accepting the scheme.

"About a quarter of the families boycotted Wednesday's move and stayed in Sophiatown," he said. "These people were living in the foulest conditions yet they refused better houses for the sake of a principle."

All shops were closed and shuttered following a night of looting.

INVOKE EMERGENCY POWERS

Governor Sir Robert Hall gave the police wide powers Friday to disperse crowds and arrest anyone carrying arms.

Most bus services have been stopped since Wednesday, when the incidents began.

The union is demanding a wage increase equivalent to 11 cents a day. They have been offered seven.

Riot in Streets

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (Reuters)—A British police officer died of stone wounds and six Africans today were reported killed in pitched battles with strikers in this British West African colony Friday night.

The officer was assistant superintendent W. M. Everitt, 34, said to have been wounded by stones as he led an attack against the rioters.

Freetown, in the grip of a four-day strike by the native Artisans' and General Workers' Union, was like an armed camp today, with battles still going on in various parts of the town.

The army has been called in and special constables have been enrolled to shift rioters from their road blocks. The water supply to the city has been sabotaged.

Giant Jet Explodes in Mid-Air; Two Survive Saskatchewan Crash

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Two survivors were found today by search planes as they scoured the snowy wilderness of northern Saskatchewan around the wreckage of an American super jet bomber that blew up and crashed in early morning twilight.

The men were found in the vicinity of the wrecked plane and the search is being pressed for the other two men who were in the giant craft.

Supplies were dropped to the men from an RCMP Dakota search plane.

The B-47 jet was accompanied by a similar plane on what RCA officials described as a Greenland, when the accident occurred, Western Canada air-

Skid Road Hotel Scene of Tragedy

CHICAGO (AP)—At least 25 men died today when fire raced through a crowded skid road hotel on West Madison Street. Fifteen others, including two firemen, were injured.

Most of the victims were derelicts or transients spending the night in the five-story Barton Hotel, which contained 365 cubicle rooms, mostly partitioned cubby holes.

Skid Road is an area west of Chicago's Loop, where derelicts congregate.

Some of the other 245 residents escaped into zero temperatures without shoes or socks to protect them from icy streets. Others were carried down ladders by firemen.

HUMAN TORCH

C. W. Harvey, the hotel's night clerk, said the fire may have started from a human torch. Joe Armato, 70-year-old pensioner, started to scream in his cubicle on the second floor and ran out covered with flames.

Armato habitually used rubbing alcohol, hotel officials said, and might have been using the rubbing alcohol while smoking.

Hours after the fire was extinguished, firemen began probing a yet unsearched section of the wrecked structure. They expressed fear that more victims may be uncovered in the debris.

Only six of the dead were identified immediately. Some were victims of smoke inhalation and exposure. Others were burned almost beyond recognition.

More than 200 residents of the Barton Hotel, a five-story brick building on West Madison Street, fled into sub-zero weather.
